

U.S. Assassinations - Century Apart - Yet So Many Similarities

A long list of unusual coincidences and similarities in the lives of Abraham Lincoln and John F. Kennedy which first appeared in King Features syndicated column of Jim Bishop: Reporter and published by The Freeman on December 30, 1963, has since been augmented in each succeeding printing.

The similarities, starting with Bishop's are:

In Fruitful Years

Both Lincoln and Kennedy were in the fruitful middle years when assassinated and both desired to be known as the president who brought peace, at home as well as abroad and both did not live to achieve it.

Lincoln and Kennedy both liked the South, but the South did not like them. Both tried to force the South to liberalize its policies toward the Negro, but the South was neither ready nor willing to do it.

Both had four children, two of which in each case died. In the company of little ones, both enjoyed shedding the weight and austerity of high office and both appreciated practical jokes.

The First Ladies were both fashionable, but restive in the White House and both liked poetry and painting, but not state dinner and the company of politicians. Both First Ladies fought to maintain a private family life and sometimes failed.

Could Quote From Bible

Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Kennedy both enjoyed reading the Bible and could quote from the Old Testament as well as the New and both had deep religious feelings, but kept them personal.

The programs of both presidents were often thwarted by their own parties. Whatever support they had in Congress came from a coalition of liberal groups. Both served their home states in Congress.

In public, they displayed enormous patience, although in private both were irritated by opposition to their policies in the American press.

Both Lincoln and Kennedy were beset by job-seekers and those who stole their time as though it were limitless.

Liked Plain Food

Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Kennedy were both spare eaters and liked plain food and both were omnivorous readers who devoured newspaper stories and history books.

Mr. Lincoln became president in 1861 and Mr. Kennedy in 1961. One of the persons most worried about the safety of Mr. Lincoln was John Kennedy, superintendent of police in New York City. One of the persons most worried about the safety of Mr. Kennedy was Evelyn Lincoln, his personal secretary.

In an augmented list of the similarities, Lincoln's Mr. Kennedy reportedly advised him not to attend the theatre on the fatal night, and Kennedy's secretary, Mrs. Lincoln feared for his safety in Dallas, Texas.

Both were assassinated on a Friday and both by a misguided man with a gun. The bullet smashed through the back of the head of both presidents.

Succeeded by Johnson

Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Kennedy were both succeeded by a southerner named Johnson.

Another listing said both presidents were concerned with civil rights.

Both have seven letters in their last names. In both cases the assassination was in the presence of their wives. Their successors, Johnson in each case, were both Democrats, southerners and previously served in the U. S. Senate. Andrew Johnson was born in 1808 and Lyndon B. Johnson in 1908.

John Wilkes Booth was born in 1839, and Lee Harvey Oswald was born in 1939. Both have a total of 15 letters in their name. Both were murdered before trial and both were southerners favoring unpopular ideas.

Oswald came from a warehouse and hid in a theatre during flight and Booth came from a theatre and hid in a warehouse.

Lincoln was 56 when he died and Kennedy was 46.

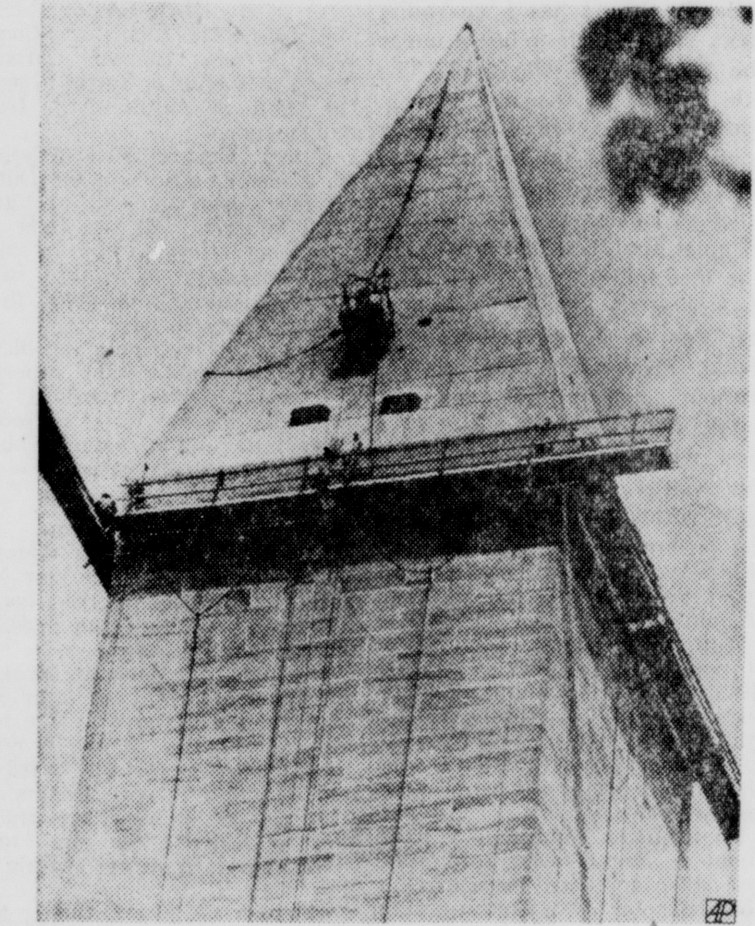

Chicago was the scene of the GOP nominating convention which named Lincoln in 1860 and again in 1960 which named Kennedy's opponent, Richard M. Nixon.

Charles McHarry in his On the Town column in the Daily News, mentions that readers have questioned one point in the parallels — the birth date of Booth. Some said he was born in 1838 and others give the year as 1839.

G Is Key Letter

It is significant to note that Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, a Republican, succeeded Johnson to the White House, and that the GOP standard bearer opposing Johnson, Barry M. Goldwater, became a reserve brigadier general after he returned from World War II service in the Air Force. Both last names begin with the letter G.

Going a step further in the realm of possibility, Andrew Johnson failed to get the Democratic nomination after that and Horatio Seymour ran against Gen. Grant.

State Buttons Up After Snow and New Record Lows

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — New Yorkers, chilled by unusually cool weather and reports of a summer snowfall, braced today for another night of low temperatures similar to those which reached record levels in some communities.

No Accumulation

Generally fair weather was at hand today, the Weather Bureau predicted, with temperatures expected to hit the mid 40s to 50s tonight and early Sunday.

Observers on Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks reported that snow fell there Friday. There was no accumulation, however. The overnight low temperature was 34 degrees.

Meanwhile, Rochester recorded a low of 47, a record for this date. It was the fifth time this month a record low was reached there. The previous mark for the date was 49 in 1954.

48 in Albany

In Albany, the mercury dropped to 48, equalling a mark set first in 1950 on this date.

CBS Eye Not Only One Involved in Yanks' Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is casting an increasingly wary eye on the $11.2-million deal that gives the Columbia Broadcasting System majority ownership of the New York Yankees.

Congressional reaction to the surprise transaction — already approved by the American League — includes demands subjected to the antitrust laws.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the powerful House Judiciary Committee said Friday the sale "indicates baseball is big business."

Celler, who also is chairman of the Judiciary Committee's antitrust subcommittee, said "the bars must be put up and the baseball clubs subjected to the antitrust laws."

Professional baseball now operates under limited exemption from antitrust laws. The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee recently approved a bill to clarify the exemption and extend it to other professional sports.

But Sens. Kenneth D. Keating and Jacob K. Javits, New York Republicans, said there should be no quick condemnation of the sale even though they agreed

Father of Six Is 30th Road Fatality of 1964 in Dutchess

A Dutchess County father of six children was killed in a head-on crash in the Town of Poughkeepsie, Friday night, and a 65-year-old woman was fatally hurt in a two-car collision on Route 17 near Middletown.

Both highway fatalities are still under investigation.

Equals 1963 Total

Dutchess County chalked up its 30th highway death of 1964 Friday night, after Constantine Padworski, 31, father of six children, of 125 Vassar Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, died of injuries suffered in a two-car collision.

The highway death toll in Dutchess County for the entire year of 1963 was 30.

Padworski was the operator of a car which was involved in a head-on collision on North Road (Route 9) just north of Poughkeepsie at about 9:30 p. m. yesterday. The other car, a 1955 sedan, was driven by Lonnie K. McKinney, of 1 Talmadge Street, Poughkeepsie.

McKinney was admitted to St. Francis' Hospital. He suffered multiple lacerations of the face and other injuries. Police said they had been unable to question McKinney because of his condition, and a definite account of crash was not available.

According to a report of Town Police Lieut. John Brown, Detective Lieut. Richard Hellman and Detective George Lochner, Padworski was apparently driving north and McKinney was traveling south when the vehicles crashed head-on.

Both drivers were taken to St. Francis' Hospital. Padworski was pronounced dead at 11:05 p. m.

Dr. William G. Thompson, Rhinebeck, a Dutchess County assistant medical examiner, reported Padworski died of multiple body injuries and a skull fracture. Dr. Thompson withheld

Priest Balks Span Leap

A Columbia County Catholic priest's pleading and prayers early today prompted a 21-year-old youth to abandon his plan to commit suicide by leaping 250 feet into the Hudson River from a catwalk on top of the Rip Van Winkle Bridge, Town of Greenport.

Claverack State Police reported that David George Cole, of Box 253 Stottville, climbed down from his perch on the bridge about 250 feet above the Hudson River, and was taken into protective custody by State Police.

He was taken to the Claverack sub-station, examined by Dr. Stanley Bardwell assistant health officer of Columbia County, and released in custody of his parents pending psychiatric treatment, troopers told The Freeman.

The dramatic episode began at 1:15 a. m. today when an unidentified motorist driving across the Rip Van Winkle Bridge, spotted a youth climbing over a rail on the north side of the river span. He hurriedly drove to a booth and telephoned authorities.

Claverack troopers investigated. They saw Cole perched on a catwalk 250 feet above the river. They said later the youth repeatedly threatened to leap in an attempt to end his life.

Troopers said the youth ignored their orders to come down. Meanwhile, calls were made to the sheriff's office in Greene and Columbia Counties. Deputies from both areas went

$40 Million for State

The appropriations bill, now at the White House, includes nearly $40 million for projects in New York State.

The measure appropriates money to the Atomic Energy Commission and to the Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau. The Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau will use the funds to plan, build and main navigation, flood-control, irrigation and power projects.

Appropriations proposed total $4,430,794,700, a compromise between the $4,325,969,200 vote originally by the House and the $4,443,283,200 voted by the Senate.

Both houses passed the agreed version Friday.

World's Week in News Summary of Events Here and Abroad

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The effort during the week was to keep the peace, and the peace, if strained at times and at times assuming unusual postures, held — in the Gulf of Tonkin, on the island of Cyprus, in the dells of Pennsylvania.

At Hershey, Pa., where the sweet smell of harmony was as heady as the aroma of chocolate, Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater assured party leaders he was opposed to extremist groups, was in favor of the aims of the United Nations, and was disposed to "use the great moral influence of the presidency to promote prompt and peaceful observance of civil rights laws."

His speech, he felt, wasn't at all conciliatory nor did he regard it as any concession to those leaders within his party who a few weeks previous had called him unfit for the job of president; he was, he said, merely clarifying once again his long-held positions.

After the Hershey speech, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller still seemed to have some reservation about giving all-out support to Goldwater.

It appeared Goldwater was making headway in patching over the cracks in the GOP.

While trying to make peace with fellow Republicans, Goldwater left little doubt he still was waging war with Democrats. In his first major speech since his nomination, he accused the Johnson administration of "utter disregard for Renewed rebel assaults broke out Friday 700 miles apart in the vast and mineral-rich nation amid new evidence the Chinese Communists are backing the insurgents. U.S. officials discussed the government's plight with Premier Moise Tshombe while in Washington the U.S. role touched off a debate.

Rebel forces advanced to within 12 miles of Bukavu, the capital of central Kivu Province.

State Editorials Cry 'Carpetbagger' In Reference to RFK's Senate Hopes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "Carpetbagger" is the term that crops up most often in editorial comment by the daily newspapers of New York State on the possible U.S. Senate candidacy of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Among newspapers that have taken a stand, reaction has been almost unanimously hostile to the prospect that Kennedy might run under the New York Democratic banner this fall.

The younger brother of the last President has not committed himself publicly to a New York race. But he appears to be favorably inclined and to have enough support among party leaders to win the nomination at the Democratic state convention Sept. 1.

Editorial writers across the state were quick to point out that Kennedy, who now lives in Virginia, is a legal resident of Massachusetts.

His supporters say he could qualify for the race under a section of the federal constitution that would appear to require only that he reside in New York at election time.

Some newspapers raised the question of whether New York was so destitute of political talent that it had to go out-of-state for a Senate candidate. A few defended him on the ground that he would be a strong candidate.

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Communist-backed rebel forces are stepping up their bid to win control of the turbulent Congo as U.S. planes begin ferrying hard-pressed government troops to troubled spots.

Renewed rebel assaults broke out Friday 700 miles apart in the vast and mineral-rich nation amid new evidence the Chinese Communists are backing the insurgents. U.S. officials discussed the government's plight with Premier Moise Tshombe while in Washington the U.S. role touched off a debate.

In the west, Peking-trained Pierre Mulele's warriors came within 20 miles south of Kikwit in Kwilu Province. His forces total more than 2,000 men, reports said.

Move to Shore Up Regime

The rebel thrusts came as four U.S. C-130 planes took off on their first mission to aid the shaky government army. More than 100 Americans, including 40 paratroopers, arrived Friday.

A military source said one of the four U.S. cargo planes flew to Bukavu, where six rebels were reported killed and several others captured.

Scanty reports from the rebel-held northern city of Stanleyville said rebel leader Gaston Soumialot had reached Kindu, capital of Maniema Province.

The paratroopers are the first foreign soldiers officially in the former Belgian territory since the United Nations withdrew its force last June 30. U.S. Embassy officials said the men had been sent to the Congo only to guard the transport planes and ride U.S. helicopters on rescue and support missions.

The officials, including Pres. G. Mennen Williams, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, said that the dispatching of American soldiers to the Congo was not an indication of a radical change in U.S. policy. Williams, who arrived Friday, conferred with Tshombe over the worsening revolt.

In Washington the U.S. role was sharply questioned by Sen. (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Compromise Rule Out for Cyprus, Athens Talks Set

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou flew unexpectedly to Athens today for new talks with the Greek government on the Cyprus crisis.

Has Makarios Message

Before leaving Kyprianou told newsmen his Greek Cypriot government is not interested in any halfway solutions for the crisis involving the island's Greek and Turkish factions. He said the only way out is to give Cyprus complete and unfettered independence.

"There is no room for compromise along this line," he said.

After Kyprianou's arrival in Athens, usually reliable sources said he was carrying an urgent message from President Archbishop Makarios regarding Sunday's 24-hour visit by U.N. mediator Sakari Tuomioja.

The source said Makarios, wary of any future Greek moves without his knowledge, had sent Kyprianou to Athens to ask Greek officials what they intended to tell Tuomioja.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

Salvatore Accardi, a patrolman on the New York City police force, once walked through the valley of the shadow of death. In attempting to apprehend bank robbers he received a direct burst from a submachine gun held by one of the robbers. One slug glanced off his knee, the other hit the shield on his chest, knocking him backwards through a plate glass door, but not penetrating his body.

Accardi says his early religious instruction had stayed with him. The proof of this was in a letter he wrote to his police chaplain shortly after the incident.

"I'll let you in on a little secret. That bullet that hit me in the chest never got past the medal of the Blessed Mother. I wear around my neck. It was a miracle and nobody can tell me different."

Patrolman Accardi's faith has prepared him to face his own private death valley again if need be.

But if there are distracting noises there also are nice noises—noises that brighten our lot; noises that provide for us a gracious therapy; noises that help to put our frazzled world back together for us. Most folks love bird-song. Their cheerful melody is a lift to sagging spirits. I'm sure the birds don't realize (and there is no way to tell them) how much they help us humans just by being around and letting us share in the joy they feel in their feathered beauty.

I am writing these lines on a lovely August day in a beautiful state park on the edge of Lake Ontario. There is balm for jaded nerves in the sound of waves beating gently against the shore. Recall how Anne Morrow Lindbergh in the "Gift From the Sea" tells how time spent in close proximity to the restless ocean restored her poise of spirit and brought things back into a healthy perspective.

To a real mother the sound of her baby's voice always is music to her ears. God has so ordered things here below that there are few noises on earth nicer than that.

In John Bunyan's allegory of the Christian life he says that when Pilgrim was in the valley of the shadow of death he thought he heard the voice of someone on before him saying: "Though I walk through the valley, I will fear no evil." That, says Bunyan, made Christian's heart rejoice; for he gathered that someone who feared God also was in the valley.

Not only in the last valley, but in every valley on this strange journey of life it indeed is nice to hear that voice which is made by the voice of a true and trusted friend.

"Thanks, God, for a bed. A roof overhead. A window that faces the sky. A door with a latch. That's easy to catch. The voice of a friend passing by."

Your Life and Mine

by CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

The Nice Noises

Sandy Stuart has a charming short story about a horse under the title "High Pasture." The tale unfolds in the first person, which is to say that the young horse does the talking. Here is the opening sentence: "It was quiet as I came over the knoll—so quiet that you could hear all the nice noises."

Ours is, by all odds, the noisiest age in the history of the world. Progress is not possible without noise. And unfortunately most of the noise associated with progress is distracting. Great bridges cannot be built without the terrific din of the pneumatic riveting hammer. Highways cannot be constructed apart from the dust and roar of enormous trucks and other working equipment. The whirr of jets, the rumble of traffic, the distressful pounding of pneumatic tools—these things jangle our nerves, take their toll on our physical bodies, and often make us wish ears were less sensitive.

Some little time ago I read about a doctor who said that his calls increased in a certain neighborhood by something like twenty-five per cent after a commercial airport opened for business nearby. To many folks the worst part about living in a city is the noise. Hospitals, if there is a choice, today are built in quiet spots. There is a gentle therapy about quietness that is observed in every thoughtful sickroom.

But if there are distracting noises there also are nice noises—noises that brighten our lot; noises that provide for us a gracious therapy; noises that help to put our frazzled world back together for us. Most folks love bird-song. Their cheerful melody is a lift to sagging spirits. I'm sure the birds don't realize (and there is no way to tell them) how much they help us humans just by being around and letting us share in the joy they feel in their feathered beauty.

Congo Priest Wages Battle On Delinquency

By JOHN LATZ

ELISABETHVILLE, Congo (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest is waging a battle to save the youth of Elisabethville from delinquency.

Father Gerard Van Asperdt, 38, a former officer in the Dutch air force, also holds an architectural degree. He thought it worth an effort to try to save the thousands of youths who sleep in gutters and spend their waking hours in bars.

He started with only the blessing of the local father superior of the Salesian Order. He cleared some waste ground three miles out of town to build the home of his dreams—a City of Youth

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

Salvatore Accardi, a patrolman on the New York City police force, once walked through the valley of the shadow of death. In attempting to apprehend bank robbers he received a direct burst from a submachine gun held by one of the robbers. One slug glanced off his knee, the other hit the shield on his chest, knocking him backwards through a plate glass door, but not penetrating his body.

Accardi says his early religious instruction had stayed with him. The proof of this was in a letter he wrote to his police chaplain shortly after the incident.

"I'll tell you in a little secret. That bullet that hit me in the chest never got past the medal of the Blessed Mother. I wear around my neck. It was a miracle and nobody can tell me different."

Patrolman Accardi's faith has prepared him to face his own private death valley again if need be.

Your Life and Mine

The Nice Noises

Sandy Stuart has a charming short story about a horse under the title "High Pasture." The tale unfolds in the first person, which is to say that the young horse does the talking. Here is the opening sentence: "It was quiet as I came over the knoll—so quiet that you could hear all the nice noises."

Ours is, by all odds, the noisiest age in the history of the world. Progress is not possible without noise. And unfortunately most of the noise associated with progress is distracting. Great bridges cannot be built without the terrific din of the pneumatic riveting hammer. Highways cannot be constructed apart from the dust and roar of enormous trucks and other working equipment. The whirr of jets, the rumble of traffic, the distressful pounding of pneumatic tools—these things jangle our nerves, take their toll on our physical bodies, and often make us wish ears were less sensitive.

Some little time ago I read about a doctor who said that his calls increased in a certain neighborhood by something like twenty-five per cent after a commercial airport opened for business nearby. To many folks the worst part about living in a city is the noise. Hospitals, if there is a choice, today are built in quiet spots. There is a gentle therapy about quietness that is observed in every thoughtful sickroom.

But if there are distracting noises there also are nice noises—noises that brighten our lot; noises that provide for us a gracious therapy; noises that help to put our frazzled world back together for us. Most folks love bird-song. Their cheerful melody is a lift to weary spirits. I'm sure the birds don't realize (and there is no way to tell them) how much they help us humans just by being around and letting us share in the joy they feel in their feathered breasts.

I am writing these lines on a lovely August day in a beautiful state park on the edge of Lake Ontario. There is balm for frayed nerves in the sound of waves beating gently against the shore. Recall how Anne Morrow Lindbergh in the "Gift From the Sea" tells how time spent in close proximity to the restless ocean restored her poise of spirit and brought things back into a healthy perspective.

To a real mother the sound of her baby's voice always is music to her ears. God has so ordered things here below that there are few noises on earth nicer than that.

In John Bunyan's allegory of the Christian life he says that when Pilgrim was in the valley of the shadow of death he thought he heard the voice of someone on before him saying: "Though I walk through the valley, I will fear no evil." That, says Bunyan, made Christian's heart rejoice; for he gathered that someone who feared God also was in the valley.

Not only in the last valley, but in every valley on this strange journey of life it indeed is nice to hear that voice which is made by the voice of a true and trusted friend.

"Thanks, God, for a bed.

A door with a latch.

That's easy to catch.

The voice of a friend passing by."

Congo Priest Wages Battle On Delinquency

By JOHN LATZ

ELISABETHVILLE, Congo (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest is waging a battle to save the youth of Elisabethville from delinquency.

Father Gerard Van Asperdt, 38, a former officer in the Dutch air force, also holds an architectural degree. He thought it worth an effort to try to save the thousands of youths who sleep in gutters and spend their waking hours in bars.

He started with only the blessing of the local father superior of the Salesian Order. He cleared some waste ground three miles out of town to build the home of his dreams—a City of Youth.

Lions Club Helps

The local Lions Club donated $2,240—and Father Van Asperdt has built a modest house for his own living quarters, a kitchen and a chapel.

The next phase of the project will cost $48,000 and Van Asperdt hopes to have it finished within two years. It will provide accommodation for 600 boarders and 900 day boys. Youths of from 15 to 25 are acceptable but, he added: "We shall take older boys if they are unable to find work."

Although he is a Catholic, Father Van Asperdt said "we shall help everybody who needs our help."

The project will include workshops, a bakery and a technical school. Products will be sold in town to raise funds.

Van Asperdt's only assistant is a young Italian, Abbe Mario Marchioli, 20, from Abruzzi, who is studying for his theological degree at a Catholic college here.

Soccer Ticket Is Pay

Early every morning, a number of youths report to work on the project. Their only pay is a bowl of corn at lunchtime and a free ticket to the Sunday soccer match.

The priest has opened playing fields and is proud of his two pairs of boxing gloves. In his early days he was a boxer and judo champion. This came in handy recently when bandits tried to steal his truck and car from the isolated house. Armed with a baseball bat he chased them off.

Father Van Asperdt dons his cassock—"I must look respectable"—to show visitors around his "recruiting ground." These include flash-storm ditches, in which some of his boys had slept; a brothel, and finally an African bar, renowned for its rowdiness. "This is where my clients come from," he says laughingly.

Canal Celebrates, Wary Eye on Future

PANAMA (AP) — The Panama Canal celebrates its golden anniversary in world commerce today, but the big ditch's prospects for the next 50 years aren't as bright.

Because of political tension, today's celebrations have been deliberately tuned to a low key. Canal officials had planned to invite President Johnson, but the idea was hastily dropped after the bloody, anti-American rioting last January.

In the Republic of Panama, the anniversary is being ignored. The Panama Canal was formally opened at 7 a. m. Aug. 15, 1914. At that moment the SS Ancon, which had been used for hauling cement during construction of the monumental project, started from the Atlantic side of the canal for the first official transit of the new waterway.

Now increased shipping demands have created the need for a larger canal.

The anniversary is being noted by Canal Zone American officials with special luncheons in honor of Panamanian government leaders and past and present canal authorities. There also will be a ride through the canal for the guests.

Animal Is Blamed For Auto Mishap

While driving a 1953 car on Russell Road, Town of Hurley, at 2 a. m. today, Miss Maxine Dean, 19, of 37 Grandview Avenue, swerved to avoid a dog and lost control of the vehicle.

Deputy Sheriffs B. H. Wolven and Bernard Ellsworth reported, the car, owned by Nellie Mae Grant of Hunter, was traveling northeast on the highway, when the animal ran in the path of the vehicle.

Miss Dean avoided hitting the dog, but lost control of the car as it left the right side of the pavement, hit a railing and post and then veered across the road and hit another post.

No injuries were reported.

Vacation School Concludes With Program Sunday

Accomplishments of the two-week daily vacation Bible school will be demonstrated at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Sunday 7 p. m.

A quiz board will highlight the demonstration. It is electrified so that if the correct answer is given, a buzzer sounds off, denoting the student's accuracy. Questions are based on the Gospel of John, the subject of study in the intermediate department.

This department has been under the supervision of David Leinhos and further spiritual instruction was given by Mrs. Richard Hart.

A feature of the primary department, taught by Mr. and Mrs. DeForest Shaver, is the rhythm band. The instruments, molded on the lines of Bible musical instruments, have been made by the children themselves.

The junior department has been headed up by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cicio. Among other accomplishments, they have made plaques of plaster of Paris. Some involved Bible items and events. The special offering of the school, after such costs are met, the balance will be given to the missionary project of the children. They have received an offering toward helping Miss Edith Barrett buy a Land Rover to use in her missionary activities in Thailand.

Mrs. Rowland Saunders has been director. She announced that a staff of about 25 children, supervised by about 15 adults, will be in charge of the children's night.

Parents and friends of the children may attend Sunday night. The church is at 131 Franklin Street.

A different approach will be made next year for the summer sessions, "Uncle Bob" and "Aunt Vi" Portway, children's evangelists of Toronto, Canada will be here for one week with their own program for the children. Dates are July 13-18.

Thorny Issues Face State Judge Over Racial Imbalance

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice had these difficult questions to ponder today in the continuing controversy over racial discrimination in the public schools:

When a school district changes its enrollment plan to break up racial imbalance, is it merely giving Negro children the equal opportunities to which they are entitled?

Or, by moving white children from their neighborhood schools to make room for Negro pupils, is the district actually discriminating against the whites in favor of the Negroes?

One of Several

These were the issues argued before Justice DeForest C. Pitt Friday in a court challenge of the White Plains board of education plan for achieving better racial balance in the city's schools.

Parents of several white children want the court to invalidate the plan, which involves transporting some children out of their regular neighborhood schools and bringing in others.

The case is one of several in various courts stemming from efforts of the State Education Department to eliminate racial imbalance.

The white parents' lawyer, Mason L. Hampton, told Pitt that the White Plains plan involved assignment of pupils "on one factor and one factor alone — race."

This, he argued, conflicts with a long series of court decisions, ranging all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, that race may not be a determining factor in assigning pupils.

Hampton said that in all such cases the courts had acted to protect the rights of Negroes. "White pupils are entitled to the same protection that has been afforded Negroes," he asserted.

Andrew Barnes Jr., representing the city's board of education, said the final goal of the plan was better education for Negro students. He said studies showed that pupils in racially imbalanced schools suffered psychologically and sociologically and therefore were deprived of equal educational opportunities.

Mother, 2 Sons

Are Found Safe

In Adirondacks

INDIAN LAKE, N. Y. (AP) —

The search for a mother and her two young sons lost in the Adirondack wilderness ended with success when State Police bloodhounds were put on the job.

The dogs tracked them Friday to the Cedar River flow, about eight miles from the Lewey Lake campsite where they had been staying.

Mrs. Mary L. Peterson, 32, of Bohemia, Long Island, and John, 11, and Brian, 4, were found safe and apparently in good condition, despite near-freezing weather and heavy rain.

They had been lost for about 24 hours.

Mrs. Peterson and her husband, John, had set out with the boys and two daughters Thursday on a trail up Lewey Mountain, Peterson, a detective for the Suffolk County Police Department, returned with the girls Thursday afternoon and reported they had become separated from the others.

State Police and volunteers searched all Thursday night. They brought in six bloodhounds Friday.

The mother and her sons, all well-clothed, were returned to the campsite after the rescue.

Station Wagon Struck

Police investigated Friday a report by Mrs. Ernest J. Ryan of 273 West Chestnut Street that her station wagon had been damaged by an object thrown from the New York Central Railroad Bridge over Aabel Street.

Bias Ruled Out In Plot Sales

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Cemeteries in New York State may not refuse to sell a grave lot to a person because of his race or color, the state attorney general says.

Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz asserted Friday that New York's anti-discrimination laws were very clear on that point.

He made public a letter to Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo, who had passed along an inquiry from a cemetery association that wanted to know whether it had the right to restrict deeds to "members of the Caucasian race."

In his reply, Lefkowitz cited section 514 of the Penal Law:

"A person who, excludes a citizen of this state by reason of race, color, national origin or previous condition of servitude from the equal enjoyment of an accommodation, facility or privilege furnished by a cemetery association, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

He pointed out that the penalty for violations ranges from $50 to $500.

Lomenzo's office was unable to provide immediately the name of the cemetery corporation that submitted the query.

President Asks $12,128,917 Fund Help for Senecas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has requested Congress to appropriate $12,128,917 to help the Seneca Indians adjust to construction of the Allegheny River Reservoir in New York and Pennsylvania.

The President made a formal request Friday for passage of a special appropriation bill to finance a rehabilitation fund in that amount for the Indians.

Much of their Allegheny reservation will be flooded by the reservoir, to be created by construction of a dam at Kinzua, Pa.

Senate and House conferees agreed earlier this week on a $15,000,573 compensation bill, including a rehabilitation fund of $12,128,917 for education and resettlement of Indians and industrial and commercial development.

The rest of the money authorized by the bill would be for indirect and direct damages and would be paid by the Army Engineers out of funds appropriated by Congress for construction of the dam and reservoir.

A public works bill that included $27 million for this construction was passed by both houses Friday and sent to Johnson.

As approved and sent to the Senate, the bill extended the Defense Education Act until June 30, 1967. It was originally passed in 1958 — the year after the Russians had launched their Sputnik — as a means of improving the teaching of science and mathematics.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House approved an increase in funds for college student loans Friday in passing a bill extending and broadening the National Defense Education Act.

In it the House also extended for one year the impacted-areas program of federal grants to school districts swollen by government facilities.

Such demonstrations demand skill and top technique along with an excellent finished product. For the public, pantomime demonstrations will be in progress all day Wednesday, Aug. 19 from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Thursday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. at the Ulster County 4-H Club local leaders baked foods booth. The product will be made, baked and sold at the booth along with other homemade items.

Judges Are Announced

The fair exhibits that have been mentioned must comply with the 4-H County fair premium listings and must also be an exhibit of the products taken in the foods, clothing, home management and home improvement projects which the member has been enrolled this year.

Judges will be: Mrs. Frank Elliott, New Paltz; Miss Joy Shaw, Dairy Council, Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Jean Gavigan, Central Hudson Corporation; Mrs. George Wildrick, Wallkill; Mrs. Dorothy Bell, New Paltz; Mrs. Thurlow Weed Jr., New Paltz; Mrs. Dorothy Darling, Port Ewen; Mrs. Lillian Schleede, Woodstock; Miss Grace Elliott, New Paltz.

Two Men Killed In Ontario Crash

MANCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) —

Two men were killed early today when their automobiles collided at a Route 96 intersection near this Ontario County community.

The sheriff's office identified them tentatively as Donald W. Gourlay, 30, of nearby Victor, and Linwood L. Corson, 19, of Wellington, Maine.

Two other persons—a woman riding in the car with Gourlay, and a man in the Corson car—were injured and were taken to Clifton Springs Hospital. They were not identified immediately.

Profiles in Courage

JFK Book Basis Of New TV Hour

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One new television series will start its season well after the rest of the pack. "Profiles in Courage" will not debut until Nov. 8, because that's the way the late President John F. Kennedy wanted it.

After Kennedy's election to the presidency, many producers sought his best-selling book about moral courage in American politics as basis for a series. But not until Robert Saudek made an inquiry did Kennedy begin serious consideration. He had made two appearances as a senator on Saudek's "Omnibus."

Stringent Terms

Kennedy established stringent terms for the series — approval of script, final film, casting, director, even the press releases. And to avoid any political repercussions, the series was not to go on the air until after the 1964 elections.

Saudek and NBC have continued to follow Kennedy's instructions since his death. All details of the hour films are cleared with the estate. The scripts are reviewed by former Kennedy aide Theodore C. Sorenson, who will receive screen credit.

"Bob Kennedy has seen two of the finished films," reports Michael Ritchie, associate to producer Gordon Oliver. "Ted Kennedy has seen four or five of them, and both are ecstatic over the results."

Full 26 Weeks Certain

Tail, bespectacled Ritchie, who looks like a Harvard history student — which he was four years ago — said the scripts will necessarily go beyond the 18 courageous figures featured in the book.

"Fortunately, Sorenson was able to provide a list of other people Kennedy had considered for inclusion in the book," said Ritchie. "We also found a magazine story which the president had written about women of courage in American history."

The series will occupy the Sunday evening hour following "Meet the Press." Come high or low ratings, "Profiles in Courage" is guaranteed a full 26-week season without options. That was a Kennedy stipulation, too.

Says Unrest Is Inevitable When Schools Integrate

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Turmoil and unrest are inevitable in efforts to achieve "true integration" in public schools, the state education commissioner said today.

James E. Allen Jr. said that "the situations which have created segregation have long been in the making and their correction will not be quickly achieved."

He commented in a speech prepared for delivery to the annual Regents Institute for New School Board Members.

Allen has been at the center of the many controversies over Education Department policies aimed at eliminating racial imbalance from public schools throughout the state.

He has held that children in racially imbalanced schools do not enjoy full educational opportunities because they are deprived of associations with children from other races and backgrounds.

The commissioner said today that the civil rights movement "challenges directly and inescapably the principle, fundamental to our philosophy of education, of equality of opportunity for all."

"A special responsibility rests upon all educational leaders in this period," Allen asserted. "Not only must we act firmly and with all possible speed to eliminate segregation in our schools, but we must also give renewed emphasis to the teaching of the principles of equal rights and freedom that motivate our actions."

Burglar Takes Gems In Po'keepsie Break

A burglary in the Town of Poughkeepsie on Friday netted the intruder articles valued at more than $400, according to police.

Mrs. Lemoine returned home and discovered her home had been entered. She said personal articles, mostly jewelry, valued at upwards of $400 had been stolen.

Police said the burglar apparently slid a piece

Canal Celebrates, Wary Eye on Future

PANAMA (AP) — The Panama Canal celebrates its golden anniversary in world commerce today, but the big ditch's prospects for the next 50 years aren't as bright.

Because of political tension, today's celebrations have been deliberately tuned to a low key. Canal officials had planned to invite President Johnson, but the idea was hastily dropped after the bloody, anti-American rioting last January.

In the Republic of Panama, the anniversary is being ignored.

The Panama Canal was formally opened at 7 a.m. Aug. 15, 1914. At that moment the SS Ancon — which had been used for hauling cement during construction of the monumental project — started from the Atlantic side of the canal for the first official transit of the new waterway.

Now increased shipping demands have created the need for a larger canal.

The anniversary is being noted by Canal Zone American officials with special luncheons in honor of Panamanian government leaders and past and present canal authorities. There also will be a ride through the canal for the guests.

The locomotive which towed the Ancon on its opening trip will be presented to a representative of the National Transport Museum of St. Louis, Mo.

Panamanians, however, are observing another anniversary, the 45th of the founding of the City of Panama.

And there are rumors that Panamanian agitators may try to stir another anti-American demonstration.

On the canal ships will be moving through as they have been since 1914.

The city's plan, Barnes said, maintains "the common school concept where children of all backgrounds benefit from desk-to-desk contact with children of other socio-economic backgrounds."

The state education commissioner, Dr. James E. Allen Jr., was named as a party in the suit, but a department lawyer, George Farrington, asked the court to eliminate Allen from the proceedings.

Farrington said that Allen had issued no orders or directives in the White Plains case and that it was purely a local matter.

Hampton contended, however, that Allen should be a party to the suit because the city had acted in response to a department policy statement urging that racial imbalances be corrected.

Pitt reserved decision in the case.

As approved and sent to the Senate, the bill extended the Defense Education Act until June 30, 1967. It was originally passed in 1958 — the year after the Russians had launched their Sputnik — as a means of improving the teaching of science and mathematics.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search for a mother and her two young sons lost in the Adirondack wilderness ended with success when State Police bloodhounds were put on the job.

The dogs tracked them Friday to the Cedar River flow, about eight miles from the Lewey Lake campsite where they had been staying.

Mrs. Mary L. Peterson, 32, of Bohemia, Long Island, and John, 11, and Brian, 4, were found safe and apparently in good condition, despite near-freezing weather and heavy rain.

They had been lost for about 24 hours.

Mrs. Peterson and her husband, John, had set out with the boys and two daughters Thursday on a trail up Lewey Mountain, Peterson, a detective for the Suffolk County Police Department, returned with the girls Thursday afternoon and reported they had become separated from the others.

State Police and volunteers searched all Thursday night. They brought in six bloodhounds Friday.

The mother and her sons, all well-clothed, were returned to the campsite after the rescue.

Station Wagon Struck

Police investigated Friday a report by Mrs. Ernest J. Ryan of 273 West Chestnut Street that her station wagon had been damaged by an object thrown from the New York Central Railroad Bridge over Abel Street.

Area 4-H Groups Map Final Plans For County Fair

August is one of the busiest months of the year for the 4-H Club members of Ulster County, for during the days prior to the County Fair, each one is actively engaged in final preparations for his or her exhibits.

The learning process for such exhibits has taken place over the past year and now the members are ready for the test of their ability and skill. In the area of homemaking, sewing projects taught first to the leaders in various local and state workshops are then passed on to the members, each one selecting a project that will teach at her level but yet offer a challenge. Then under the supervision and careful instruction of the leader, the garment will take shape and be completed for the proud sewer to wear.

Will Conduct Reviews

At the Area Dress Reviews in the spring, the girls model their garments before judges, parents and friends. This major event enhances the clothing program and improves the poise, experience and knowledge of the model.

At the Ulster County Fair, besides exhibiting these garments, the girls will participate in another Review around the pool on Wednesday, August 19 at 7:15 p. m. The Review, commented by Miss Pat Larsen, summer assistant, will feature aprons, dresses, skirts and blouses, tailored suits and coats. The public is invited to attend.

Cooking is another popular area for exhibits but this demands skill and knowledge put together the first time for a blue ribbon product. Exhibits in this area range from delicious jellies and jams, to canned foods, to baked goods to relish dishes.

In connection with the foods projects, the 4-Hers are offered competitive events such as cherry and apple pie bakers, and County Demonstration Day. Such demonstrations demand skill and top technique along with an excellent finished product. For the public, pantomime demonstrations will be in progress each day Wednesday, Aug. 19 from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Thursday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. at the Ulster County 4-H Club local leaders baked foods booth. The product will be made, baked and sold at the booth along with other homemade items.

Judges Are Announced

The fair exhibits that have been mentioned must comply with the 4-H County fair premium listings and must also be an exhibit of the products taken in the foods, clothing, home management and home improvement projects which the members have been enrolled this year.

Judges will be: Mrs. Frank Elliott, New Paltz; Miss Joy Shaw, Dairy Council, Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Jean Gavigan, Central Hudson Corporation; Mrs. George Wildrick, Walkill; Mrs. Fred DuBois, New Paltz; Mrs. Dorothy Bell, Port Ewen; Mrs. Thurlow Weed Jr., New Paltz; Mrs. Dorothy Darling, Port Ewen; Mrs. Lillian Schlee, Woodstock; Miss Grace Elliott, New Paltz; Mrs. Robert Allen, Blue Mt. Park; Mrs. Alvin Beatty, New Paltz; Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, Port Ewen; Mrs. Paul D. Holly, West Hurley; Mrs. Bernard S. Kramer, Kingston; Mrs. Charles Montafia, Port Ewen; Mrs. Oscar M. Johnson, Stone Ridge; Mrs. Robert DuBois, New Paltz; Mrs. Robert Kelder Jr., Krippliebusch; Mrs. Robert Weiss, Highland; Mrs. Francis Garrison, Walkill; Miss Jane Hasbrouck, Hurley.

Other Workers Listed

Mrs. Catherine Viano Hurley, and Mrs. Charles Montafia, Port Ewen will judge crafts and hobbies.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Corey, Walkill, will judge ornamental horticultural exhibits. Assisting judges will be older 4-H club members.

In charge and helping in the food sale and demonstration booth are: Mrs. William Larsen, Mrs. George Larsen, Mrs. C. Link, Stone Ridge; Mrs. C. McGuffey, Accord; Mrs. Harvey Krause, Kingston; Mrs. James Rouse, Hurley and others.

Mrs. William Warren, High Falls; Mrs. Bart Colucci, Gardiner; and Mrs. C. McGuffey of Accord will have charge of this booth on Thursday assisted by other 4-H leaders and parents.

The luncheon committee for Wednesday noon consists of: Mrs. Robert Toogood, and Mrs. Harrison Joseph, Port Ewen; and Mrs. Cornish Mannhaupt, Flatbush.

The sheriff's office identified them tentatively as Donald W. Gourlay, 30, of nearby Victor, and Linwood L. Corson, 19, of Wellington, Maine.

Two other persons—a woman riding in the car with Gourlay, and a man in the Corson car—were injured and were taken to Clifton Springs Hospital. They were not identified immediately.

Sheriff's deputies said the cars collided at intersection of the state highway and a county road.

Dover, Sandwich, Romney, Hastings and Hythe were the names of the original Cinque Ports.

Profiles in Courage

JFK Book Basis Of New TV Hour

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One new television series will start its season well after the rest of the pack. "Profiles in Courage" will not debut until Nov. 8, because that's the way the late President John F. Kennedy wanted it.

After Kennedy's election to the presidency, many producers sought his best-selling book about moral courage in American politics as basis for a series. But not until Robert Saudek made an inquiry did Kennedy begin serious consideration. He had made two appearances as a senator on Saudek's "Omnibus."

Stringent Terms

Kennedy established stringent terms for the series — approval of script, final film, casting, director, even the press releases. And to avoid any political repercussions, the series was not to go on the air until after the 1964 elections.

Saudek and NBC have continued to follow Kennedy's instructions since his death. All details of the hour films are cleared with the estate. The scripts are reviewed by former Kennedy aide Theodore C. Sorenson, who will receive screen credit.

"Bob Kennedy has seen two of the finished films," reports Michael Ritchie, associate to producer Gordon Oliver. "Ted Kennedy has seen four or five of them, and both are ecstatic over the results."

Full 26 Weeks Certain

Tail, bespectacled Ritchie, who looks like a Harvard history student — which he was four years ago — said the scripts will necessarily go beyond the 18 courageous figures featured in the book.

"Fortunately, Sorenson was able to provide a list of other people Kennedy had considered for inclusion in the book," said Ritchie. "We also found a magazine story which the president had written about women of courage in American history."

The series will occupy the Sunday evening hour following "Meet the Press." Come high or low ratings, "Profiles in Courage" is guaranteed a full 26-week season without options. That was a Kennedy stipulation, too.

Says Unrest Is Inevitable When Schools Integrate

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Turmoil and unrest are inevitable in efforts to achieve "true integration" in public schools, the state education commissioner said today.

James E. Allen Jr. said that "the situations which have created segregation have long been in the making and their correction will not be quickly achieved."

He commented in a speech prepared for delivery to the annual Regents Institute for New School Board Members.

Allen has been at the center of the many controversies over Education Department policies aimed at eliminating racial imbalance from public schools throughout the state.

He has held that children in racially imbalanced schools do not enjoy full educational opportunities because they are deprived of associations with children from other races and backgrounds.

The commissioner said today that the civil rights movement "challenges directly and inescapably the principle, fundamental to our philosophy of education, of equality of opportunity for all."

"A special responsibility rests upon all educational leaders in this period," Allen asserted. "Not only must we act firmly and with all possible speed to eliminate segregation in our schools, but we must also give renewed emphasis to the teaching of the principles of equal rights and freedom that motivate our actions."

Burglar Takes Gems In Po'keepsie Break

A burglary in the Town of Poughkeepsie on Friday netted the intruder articles valued at more than $400, according to police.

Detective George Lochner reported Theodore Lake of 65 Taft Avenue, notified police at 6:45 p. m. that someone had entered an apartment occupied by Mrs. Claire Lemoine at that address.

Mrs. Lemoine returned home and discovered her home had been entered. She said personal articles, mostly jewelry, valued at upwards of $400 had been stolen.

Police said the burglar apparently slid a piece of thin metal under the molding and pushed back the door latch to enter the apartment.

Saugerties Woman Married 50 Years

A group of ladies from the Centerville Fire Company's Auxiliary committee paid a visit to Mrs. Nicholas Stiso, Woodstock Road, a member who will celebrate her 50th wedding anniversary Sunday.

They presented her with a salad bowl trimmed in gold along with a wall plaque.

Present were the Mmes. Frances Knuth, president, Lillian Compitello, Katherine Benz, Kathleen Whitaker and Ethel A. Jehle.

WHO NEEDS A COMPUTER?

Science is fine. In fact, it's wonderful. It's here to stay, and everybody's in favor of it.

But when it undertakes to tell us red-blooded American men what constitutes the perfect feminine figure — well, we just can't stand still for it.

What happened was that a group of scientists and engineers at a computer company got to thinking about women (even scientists do it), came up with some statistics, fed them into a computer, and the computer drew a picture of what the statistics looked like in female form.

And we've got to admit that the slide rule boys and their computer pal came up with some pretty fair results — 36-24-36, five feet five, 118 pounds, etc.

But who needs a computer to tell him that any gal with those statistics is bound to be reasonably pleasant to gaze upon?

So use your computers and other miracle gadgets on moon shots and space orbits, scientists. We nonscientists can take care of the feminine angles — or lack of them — with no help from automation.

And it will be no trouble at all for us, gentlemen. In fact, it's our pleasure.

WHAT'S NEW — OTHER-WISE?

Are you with it language-wise?
Or are you a stodgy stick-out against the semantical move-in?

You have noticed, of course, that the English language is undergoing a drastic upheaval.

Not just a new fad-word here and there, but trends that have moved into our vocabulary and taken over.

"Wise," for example. Nowadays everything is product-wise, or sales-wise, or weather-wise, or people-wise, or something-or-other-wise.

And "in" and "out."

We have walk-ins, drive-ins, sit-ins, stall-ins, lie-ins, toss-ins and even live-ins.

We have stake-outs, eat-outs, sleep-outs, drop-outs, camp-out and family spat-outs. (That's when mom and dad fuss in public.)

When Communists fired on a U. S. destroyer the other day, it was described on the air as a shoot-out.

Sometimes you wish you could have a black-out of this stylized stuff and a returning of good, old-fashioned English. It might be easier to take ear-wise.

CARE TO JOIN?

Undoubtedly the most eggheaded organization in the world is a society called "Mensa." The only qualification for joining it is the brains to score higher than 98 per cent of the general population on an intelligence test.

Purpose of Mensa, which has some 5,000 members, chiefly in Britain and the United States, is to promote contact between intellectuals and to spark the interchange of ideas on any and all subjects. Chapters in different cities hold regular meetings to bring members and minds together.

Recently, the American branch of the society queried a large number of former members to find out why they had let their memberships lapse. The most common reason given was:

"Did not like other members."

EYES BEHIND THE WHEEL

It is obvious that sharpness of vision is a prime requisite for handling a car ably. No matter how skilled and careful a driver may be, if his eyesight is poor he is a risk to himself and others on the highway.

The states have been slow to act on this evident truth. Customarily, once a license has been issued the state takes little or no pains to make sure that the driver's eyesight measure's up to a sensible standard.

New York has begun doing something about this. In accordance with a law passed by the legislature in 1963, periodic testing of drivers' vision has begun. The first tests are being made as chauffeurs' licenses are being renewed. Gradually, other drivers will

THE DISCOMFORTS OF CHOICE

Joseph Freeman, a writer who quit the Communists in the Nineteen Thirties because he couldn't stomach their double standard of justice, once took his perplexities to J.B.S. Hardman, a labor dignitary who was something of a philosopher. "Aha," said Mr. Hardman, "so you have a choice. Then you are not free."

This feeling of having a real choice in the coming presidential election is evidently giving many voters, particularly in the Northeast, a feeling of being trapped. Like the unicorn of Anne Lindbergh's poem, they long for the freedom of captivity. It's all very paradoxical, but John Lupton, who has just been appointed to serve as director of the Connecticut Republican State Campaign Policy Committee, thinks it is quite in accordance with recent history.

A year ago Mr. Lupton organized the Connecticut Republican Citizens' Committee, with the idea of carrying the Republican cause into the Democratic wards of big Connecticut cities. Connecticut has not been a Goldwater state, and now that Mr. Lupton is selling Goldwater, who is the antithesis of a "me-too" candidate, as the symbol of Republicanism he sometimes encounters people who feel like Joseph Freeman. They have a choice, and consequently they do not feel free.

"Voters," says Mr. Lupton in explanation, "have gotten used to the idea that there is no real difference between parties. They have become accustomed to making their choice on personality traits, not on ideas."

The strange sensation of having actually to choose between distinct philosophies of government has, in Mr. Lupton's opinion, caused people to go into the silences. They feel exposed when they are asked to express themselves on basic issues. So they are non-committal, or they mask their feelings by not telling the truth.

This could explain a lot about the misfiring of the public opinion polls. A Hungarian friend of mine with years of experience in European underground movements is convinced that people in this country are no longer candid with pollsters. Questioning about truly delicate issues produces an inner turbulence, and equivocation follows as a purely self-protective manner. So we have what my Hungarian friends call a "liars' bloc."

Behind the phenomenon that Mr. Lupton and the Hungarian veteran of the underground have noticed there is the deeper malaise explored by Professor David Riesman, the bellwether of the modern sociologists. Riesman has claimed that nobody is so lonesome as a man in a crowd. You can't be confidential with a mass; and you can't argue with a mass either, unless you happen to be gifted as a demagogue. With the opportunity for true expression bottled up, people who are huddled together in cities and suburbs get into the habit of waiting for somebody else to give them the signal. They become, in Professor Riesman's language, "other-directed," not "inner-directed."

The Riesman analysis is, to a certain extent, unarguable. But it can be overdone. The human individual is incalculable, and in every single individual, no matter how "other-directed" he may become out of habit, there are seeds of revulsion and revolt.

This election year could see many strange things happening as "other-directed" voters on both sides suddenly decide to listen to their own inner promptings. The fact that people aren't talking may mask an inner discomfort. But there is nothing like discomfort to provoke thought, and the act of thinking must lead to a decision.

Furthermore, if the public opinion polls have become untrustworthy, this could mean that people are more and more coming to behave as extreme individualists. By misleading the pollsters, they could be casting a vote for the sanctity of personal privacy. And the person who insists on privacy is already ceasing to be "other-directed."

The revolt against "other-directedness" has had some strange issues in the arts, which are always indicative of what is happening in society. The other night, at the annual American Dance Festival at New London, Connecticut, I watched Paul Taylor's company dance an avant garde work called "Scudorama." The dance opened with a group of slithering creatures moving like many crabs across an ocean floor. The meaning was clarified by a program note from Dante:

"What souls are these who run through this black haze?"

And he to me: "These are the nearly soulless Whose lives concluded neither blame nor praise."

A protest against lukewarmness? Yes, indeed. And it could become nationwide in November. (Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Mature Parent

You've Made Them Dawdlers

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
I have a boy, 13, who can't do anything until the very last minute. If I say anything I get accused of riding him. If I say I didn't he would let his laundry accumulate until he didn't have a clean shirt and then I'd get complaints about that. My husband is just like him. If we're going out, he always has a million things to do at the last minute before he joins us in the car. He encourages the boy to put things off, finding excuses for him instead of backing me up.

ANSWER: You're telling me that your men folk dawdle. Know something? Dawdling is never resistance to collecting laundry or joining us in the car. It's never resistance to the action we want from the dawdler. It's resistance to some pusher's suggestion that the dawdler can't move without pushing. So, if you are involved with dawdlers, you will get nowhere by making issues of collecting laundry or joining us in the car.

The problem is your own secret certainty that your dawdlers are not going to move unless you push them. It will compel you to continue pushing them until you realize what that secret certainty costs you in tension, exhaustion and resentment.

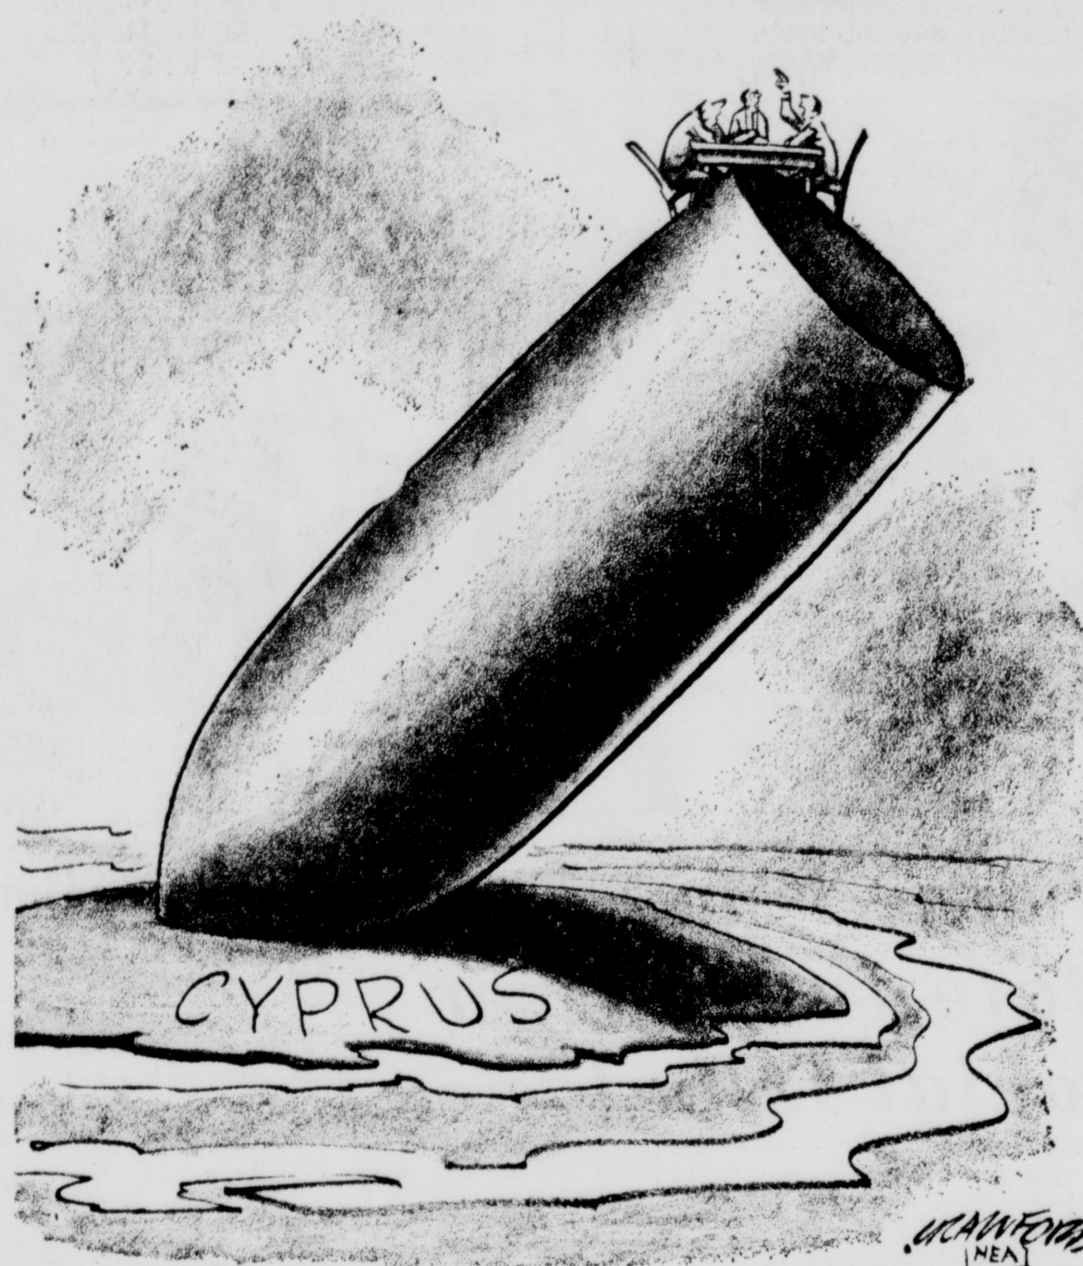

Can you realize this?
I hope so. Because it is only through a sudden, outraged appreciation of what our pushing costs us that we can stop it. It is only when we can feel our tension and register the exhaustion of our faces in the mirror that we can rise up in defense of ourselves and cry out to our own hearts (or to our dawdlers), "I am more important than collections of laundry or excursions in the car! Never will I abuse my valuable energies again by pushing you to do what you don't want to do! If you don't want to move, stand still! Wear soiled shirts until they fall off you! Sell the car if you don't want to use it! Whatever you want, I'm through pushing you to do something else!"

That's how dawdlers are dealt with. There's no other way.
So it is a difficult way. For our certainty that our dawdlers will refuse us any consideration is our certainty that we do not deserve consideration. Register this, my friend. Because the unpalatable fact is that unless we can show consideration for ourselves, our resisting dawdlers will assume that we can manage without it. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — John Grenier, deputy to new Republican National Chairman Dean Burch, recently sent his staff a memo cautioning it not to talk to reporters about the actions of the GOP National Committee.

When reports of this memo were published, Grenier countered with a second order to his staff—in the future all visitors to Committee headquarters will have to sign a guestbook.

The names of all staff members the visitor sees will be carefully logged in.

Many reporters view the second memo as another direct slap at the press—a means of checking up on staff members who might violate the first order.

One Washington newsman disagrees, though. "Who says the Republicans don't like the press," he notes. "They're treating us like 'guests' now."

DURING THE RECENT three-hour Senate debate on whether to seat Pierre Salinger as the new California senator, a visitor approached Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., and said:

"I hope you support the seating of Salinger. I'm from California."

Mindful that the case against Salinger was based on the fact that Pierre lived in Virginia until last April, Mundt answered dryly: "It's too bad Mr. Salinger isn't."

A PROMINENT midwestern lawyer was asked recently how things are in the law business these days. Said he: "Terrible." "What's wrong?" queried his friend. He replied: "Three things. First, the judges. Second, opposing counsel. Third, the clients. In that order."

MRS. MIKE MANSFIELD, wife of the Senate majority leader, recently hosted a farewell luncheon for the 88th Congress.

Afterwards she stuck her head into the Senate chamber, catching Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., in the middle of a three-hour speech on foreign affairs to a virtually empty room.

Noted Mrs. Mansfield: "Our farewell seems rather premature."

A WAGISH POLITICAL observer who thinks the indications favor fairly limited fall campaigns for both President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater comments:

"It looks like they'll both be on their front porches trying to out-rock each other."

A TEENAGER recently wrote Sen. Ken Keating, R-N.Y.: "I always enjoy seeing you on television and I never miss your radio broadcasts. I'm all excited when you come to our area to visit and when you speak to local organizations."

"I've seen several magazine articles which you wrote and everybody here is certainly looking forward to reading your new book when it comes out. This fall, I'll bet it's very exciting to do so many things."

"But tell me, senator, what do you do in real life?"

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day, my neighbor, Mrs. Dominick La Torre gave me a little booklet, called "The Houghton Line" printed in Philadelphia. One illustrated article is about covered bridges. Most of us know the Perrine Bridge, over the Walkill River, near Rifton. Much has been said and written about this covered bridge. I also have before me a colorful postal card of the Perrine Bridge put out by Griffin Paper Co. of Kingston which I think can be had at any postal card stand. It shows the side view span across the Walkill.

The article in the Houghton Line booklet is titled "Roofs over Rivers" and reads in part: "The chief guardian of the 280 covered bridges still remaining in Pennsylvania . . . Mrs. Vera H. Wagner, organizer and president of the Theodore Burr Covered Bridge Society of Pennsylvania, Inc., Harrisburg, has been a tireless worker for the preservation of roofed crossings for a number of years."

Mrs. Vera H. Wagner's item further reads: "We are aiming for 500 members this year. We have not yet quite made it. We are putting up two metal signs at each covered bridge in Pennsylvania, at our own expense, directing the traveling public to our bridges. This is the society's contribution to our guests. We sell covered bridge items, notepaper, plates, towels, calendars, with our own design, and jewelry and postal cards, to make money for these various projects." Perhaps those interested in the Rifton Perrine Bridge saving could do likewise.

Mrs. Vera H. Wagner further writes: "In addition, we petition and put on the pressure to save covered bridges throughout the state and in other states as well. All this work is voluntary, and we are proud of the new little covered bridges being built all over, as people become increasingly conscious of them. There is a photograph of Massachusetts' newest covered bridge, 1963, and the old one replaced an 1848 model."

I remember the historian, Kenneth E. Hasbrouck's Jan. 20, 1964 report, his mention of the Perrine Bridge as pictured in the Chamber of Commerce brochure, being built in 1850, and having the famous Burr truss construction. From another source I find that on Dec. 1, 1798, a covered bridge was designed which was to solve the problem of how to cross over wide rivers. Theodore Burr built a large covered bridge using the "Kingpost-Truss," a principle discovered by an Italian in 1570 and re-discovered by the American bridge builder.

Mrs. Wagner further writes: "We have, See Pennsylvania's Covered Bridges Week . . . all this helps sell Pennsylvania and also to save the bridges. Someday I think Pennsylvanians will be as proud of their covered bridges as are the New Englanders who have been trading on them for years . . . Last year we saved two covered bridges in Bedford County."

I have before me a check from the office of the Board of Directors, Treasurer of the Village of Kingston, Oct. 30, 1864, "pay to the order of I. D. Perrine, sixty-five dollars, out of the street fund audited for work on streets." There is a two cent, Geo. Washington, blue color, U. S. Inter. Rev. stamp on it. The clerk was Jas. R. Foland, and president was J. E. Ostrander. It was endorsed on the back by I. D. Perrine. Perhaps he was of the Perrine covered bridge family.

Mrs. Wagner further writes: "In addition, we petition and put on the pressure to save covered bridges throughout the state and in other states as well. WHO NEEDS A COMPUTER?

Science is fine. In fact, it's wonderful. It's here to stay, and everybody's in favor of it.

But when it undertakes to tell us red-blooded American men what constitutes the perfect feminine figure — well, we just can't stand still for it.

What happened was that a group of scientists and engineers at a computer company got to thinking about women (even scientists do it), came up with some statistics, fed them into a computer, and the computer drew a picture of what the statistics looked like in female form.

And we've got to admit that the slide rule boys and their computer pal came up with some pretty fair results — 36-24-36, five feet five, 118 pounds, etc.

But who needs a computer to tell him that any gal with those statistics is bound to be reasonably pleasant to gaze upon?

So use your computers and other miracle gadgets on moon shots and space orbits, scientists. We nonscientists can take care of the feminine angles — or lack of them — with no help from automation.

And it will be no trouble at all for us, gentlemen. In fact, it's our pleasure.

WHAT'S NEW — OTHER-WISE?

Are you at it language-wise? Or are you a stodgy stick-out against the semantical move-in?

You have noticed, of course, that the English language is undergoing a drastic upheaval.

Not just a new fad-word here and there, but trends that have moved into our vocabulary and taken over.

"Wise," for example. Nowadays everything is product-wise, or sales-wise, or weather-wise, or people-wise, or something-or-other-wise.

And "in" and "out."

We have walk-ins, drive-ins, sit-ins, stall-ins, lie-ins, toss-ins and even live-ins.

We have stake-outs, eat-outs, sleep-outs, drop-outs, camp-out and family spat-outs. (That's when mom and dad fuss in public.)

When Communists fired on a U. S. destroyer the other day, it was described on the air as a shoot-out.

Sometimes you wish you could have a black-out of this stylized stuff and a returning of good, old-fashioned English.

It might be easier to take ear-wise.

CARE TO JOIN?

Undoubtedly the most eggheadish organization in the world is a society called "Mensa." The only qualification for joining it is the brains to score higher than 98 per cent of the general population on an intelligence test.

Purpose of Mensa, which has some 5,000 members, chiefly in Britain and the United States, is to promote contact between intellectuals and to spark the interchange of ideas on any and all subjects. Chapters in different cities hold regular meetings to bring members and minds together.

Recently, the American branch of the society queried a large number of former members to find out why they had let their memberships lapse. The most common reason given was:

"Did not like other members."

EYES BEHIND THE WHEEL

It is obvious that sharpness of vision is a prime requisite for handling a car ably. No matter how skilled and careful a driver may be, if his eyesight is poor he is a risk to himself and others on the highway.

The states have been slow to act on this evident truth. Customarily, once a license has been issued the state takes little or no pains to make sure that the driver's eyesight measure's up to a sensible standard.

New York has begun doing something about this. In accordance with a law passed by the legislature in 1963, periodic testing of drivers' vision has begun. The first tests are being made as chauffeurs' licenses are being renewed. Gradually, other drivers will

Joseph Freeman, a writer who quit the Communists in the Nineteen Thirties because he couldn't stomach their double standard of justice, once took his perplexities to J.B.S. Hardman, a labor dignitary who was something of a philosopher. "Aha," said Mr. Hardman, "so you have a choice. Then you are not free."

This feeling of having a real choice in the coming presidential election is evidently giving many voters, particularly in the Northeast, a feeling of being trapped. Like the unicorn of Anne Lindbergh's poem, they long for the freedom of captivity. It's all very paradoxical, but John Lupton, who has just been appointed to serve as director of the Connecticut Republican State Campaign Policy Committee, thinks it is quite in accordance with recent history.

A year ago Mr. Lupton organized the Connecticut Republican Citizens' Committee, with the idea of carrying the Republican cause into the Democratic wards of big Connecticut cities. Connecticut has not been a Goldwater state, and now that Mr. Lupton is selling Goldwater, who is the antithesis of a "me-too" candidate, as the symbol of Republicanism he sometimes encounters people who feel like Joseph Freeman. They have a choice, and consequently they do not feel free.

"Voters," says Mr. Lupton in explanation, "have gotten used to the idea that there is no real difference between parties. They have become accustomed to making their choice on personality traits, not on ideas."

The strange sensation of having actually to choose between distinct philosophies of government has, in Mr. Lupton's opinion, caused people to go into the silences. They feel exposed when they are asked to express themselves on basic issues. So they are non-committal, or they mask their feelings by not telling the truth.

This could explain a lot about the misfiring of the public opinion polls. A Hungarian friend of mine with years of experience in European underground movements is convinced that people in this country are no longer candid with pollsters. Questioning about truly delicate issues produces an inner turbulence, and equivocation follows as a purely self-protective matter. "Se we have what my Hungarian friends call a 'liars' bloc.'"

Behind the phenomenon that Mr. Lupton and the Hungarian veteran of the underground have noticed there is the deeper malaise explored by Professor David Riesman, the bellwether of the modern socialists. Riesman has claimed that nobody is so lonesome as a man in a crowd. You can't be confidential with a mass; and you can't argue with a mass, either, unless you happen to be gifted as a demagogue. With the opportunity for true expression bottled up, people who are huddled together in cities and suburbs get into the habit of waiting for somebody else to give them the signal. They become, in Professor Riesman's language, "other-directed," not "inner-directed."

The Riesman analysis is, to a certain extent, unarguable. But it can be overcome. The human animal is inescapable, and in every single individual, no matter how "other-directed" he may become out of habit, there are seeds of revolution and revolt.

This election year could see many strange things happening as "other-directed" voters on both sides suddenly decide to listen to their own inner promptings. The fact that people aren't talking may mask an inner discomfort. But there is nothing like discomfort to provoke thought, and the act of thinking must lead to a decision.

Furthermore, if the public opinion polls have become untrustworthy, this could mean that people are more and more coming to behave as extreme individualists. By misleading the pollsters, they could be casting a vote for the sanctity of personal privacy. And the person who insists on privacy is already ceasing to be "other-directed."

The revolt against "other-directedness" has had some strange issues in the arts, which are always indicative of what is happening in society. The other night, at the annual American Dance Festival at New London, Connecticut, I watched Paul Taylor's company dance an avant garde work called "Scudorama." The dance opened with a group of slithering creatures moving like so many crabs across an ocean floor. The meaning was clarified by a program note from Dante: "What souls are these who run through this black haze?"

And he to me: "These are the nearly soulless Whose lives concluded neither blame nor praise."

A protest against lukewarmness? Yes, indeed. And it could become nationwide in November. (Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Mature Parent
You've Made Them Dawdlers

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
I have a boy, 13, who can't do anything until the very last minute. If I say anything I get accused of riding him. But if I didn't he would let his laundry accumulate until he didn't have a clean shirt and then I'd get complaints about that. My husband is just like him. If we're going out, he always has a million things to do at the last minute before he joins us in the car. He encourages the boy to put things off, finding excuses for him instead of backing me up.

ANSWER: You're telling me that your men folk dawdle. Know something? Dawdling is never resistance to collecting laundry or joining us in the car. It's never resistance to the action we want from the dawdler. It's resistance to some pusher's suggestion that the dawdler can't move without pushing. So, if you are involved with dawdlers, you will get nowhere by making issues of collecting laundry or joining you in the car.

The problem is your own secret certainty that your dawdlers are not going to move unless you push them. It will compel you to continue pushing them until you realize what that secret certainty costs you in tension, exhaustion and resentment.

Can you realize this?
I hope so. Because it is only through a sudden, outraged appreciation of what our pushing costs us that we can stop it. It is only when we can feel our tension and register the exhaustion of our faces in the mirror that we can rise up in defense of ourselves and cry out to our own hearts (or to our dawdlers), "I am more important than collections of laundry or excursions in the car! Never will I abuse my valuable energies again by pushing you to do what you don't want to do! If you don't want to move, stand still! Wear soiled shirts until they fall off you! Sell the car if you don't want to use it! Whatever you want, I'm through pushing you to want something else!"

That's how dawdlers are dealt with. There's no other way.
So it is a difficult way. For our certainty that our dawdlers will refuse us any consideration is our certainty that we do not deserve consideration. Register this, my friend. Because the unpalatable fact is that unless we can show consideration for ourselves, our resisting dawdlers will assume that we can manage without it. WASHINGTON — (NEA) — John Grenier, deputy to new Republican National Chairman Dean Burch, recently sent his staff a memo cautioning it not to talk to reporters about the actions of the GOP National Committee.

When reports of this memo were published, Grenier countered with a second order to his staff—in the future all visitors to Committee headquarters will have to sign a guestbook.

The names of all staff members the visitor sees will be carefully logged in.

Many reporters view the second memo as another direct slap at the press—a means of checking up on staff members who might violate the first order.

One Washington newsman disagrees, though. "Who says the Republicans don't like the press," he notes. "They're treating us like 'guests' now."

DURING THE RECENT three-hour Senate debate on whether to seat Pierre Salinger as the new California senator, a visitor approached Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., and said:

"I hope you support the seating of Salinger. I'm from California."

Mundtful that the case against Salinger was based on the fact that Pierre lived in Virginia until last April, Mundt answered dryly: "It's too bad Mr. Salinger isn't."

A PROMINENT midwestern lawyer was asked recently how things are in the law business these days. Said he: "Terrible." "What's wrong?" queried his friend.

He replied: "Three things. First, the judges. Second, opposing counsel. Third the clients. In that order."

MRS. MIKE MANSFIELD, wife of the Senate majority leader, recently hosted a farewell luncheon for the 88th Congress.

Afterwards she stuck her head into the Senate chamber, catching Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., in the middle of a three-hour speech on foreign affairs to a virtually empty room.

Noted Mrs. Mansfield: "Our farewell seems rather premature."

A WAGGISH POLITICAL observer who thinks the indications favor fairly limited fall campaigns for both President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater comments:

"It looks like they'll both be on their front porches trying to out-sock each other."

A TEENAGER recently wrote Sen. Ken Keating, R-N.Y.: "I always enjoy seeing you on television and I never miss your radio broadcasts. I'm all excited when you come to our area to visit and when you speak to local organizations."

I've seen several magazine articles which you wrote and everybody here is certainly looking forward to reading your new book when it comes out this fall. I'll bet it's very exciting to do so many things.

"But tell me, senator, what do you do in real life?"

Rome Plays S.I. For State Crown Of Little League

EASTCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Staten Island and Rome teams meet in the New York State little league championship game today at Eastchester Field.

The winner will go the eastern regional, which starts Tuesday at Morristown, N. J.

Rome won its ninth straight tournament game Thursday against Corning, 2-2.

Staten Island, the New York City champion, tripped New Hyde Park by the same score.

new weapons" and claimed, "Our deliverable nuclear capacity may be cut down by 90 per cent in the next decade."

A reply came from Asst. Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester. "The facts are," he said, "that in 1970 we will have a capability to deliver on target 2½ times as many warheads as we had in 1961 and a greater number than we have today."

Politics All Over

While Rockefeller was in Pennsylvania last week, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy of Massachusetts was in New York State where, it was reported, he had decided to run for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Kenneth B. Keating.

Kennedy had not confirmed the reports by week's end, but President Johnson reportedly had communicated to influential New York Democrats his view that Kennedy would strengthen the New York Democratic ticket. The New York senatorial seat could give a base of power for whatever other political ambitions Kennedy had in mind.

Peacekeeping efforts during the week in volatile Cyprus required more deeds than words. There was an abundance of both.

Trouble started last Sunday morning when Greek Cypriots began lobbing shells into the Kokkina area of mountainous northwest Cyprus from positions south of Pivonia. Kokkina is one of four villages in a Turkish Cypriot enclave in that area; the other three already had fallen to Greek Cypriots.

Within half an hour 44 Turkish jets swooped in, attacked five Greek Cypriot villages and military positions with rockets, cannon, incendiary and napalm bombs, left 33 dead and 250 wounded.

Danger Is Clear

In Western capitals the danger was clear. War between Greece and Turkey could mean utter disruption of the southern flank of the NATO and would jeopardize the NATO Southern Command which is responsible for the defense of Italy, Greece and Turkey.

On Monday at 11:46 a.m., the U.N. Security Council met in emergency session held by resolution by U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson calling for an immediate cease-fire, and adopted it 9-0 with the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia abstaining.

Tuesday, Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu and Archbishop Makarios, the bearded president of Cyprus, both notified the United Nations they would accept the cease-fire.

What impressed U.S. officials during the crisis was the way Soviet Premier Khrushchev seemed to avoid involvement.

From Nicosia, the word was out that Makarios intended to ask Khrushchev for armed intervention against the Turks. All Khrushchev did, however, was mildly admonish Inonu to stop the attacks, and express sympathy to the Greek Cypriot cause in a note to Makarios.

No Chinese Sighted

Across the world, in the Gulf of Tonkin, there was some concern that Communist China might try to retaliate against the U. S. 7th Fleet for its retaliation against North Vietnamese torpedo boat attacks. But no Chinese were sighted. In case any were, 7th Fleet commanders had orders to "pursue, attack and destroy" anyone venturing on hostile acts against Americans in international waters.

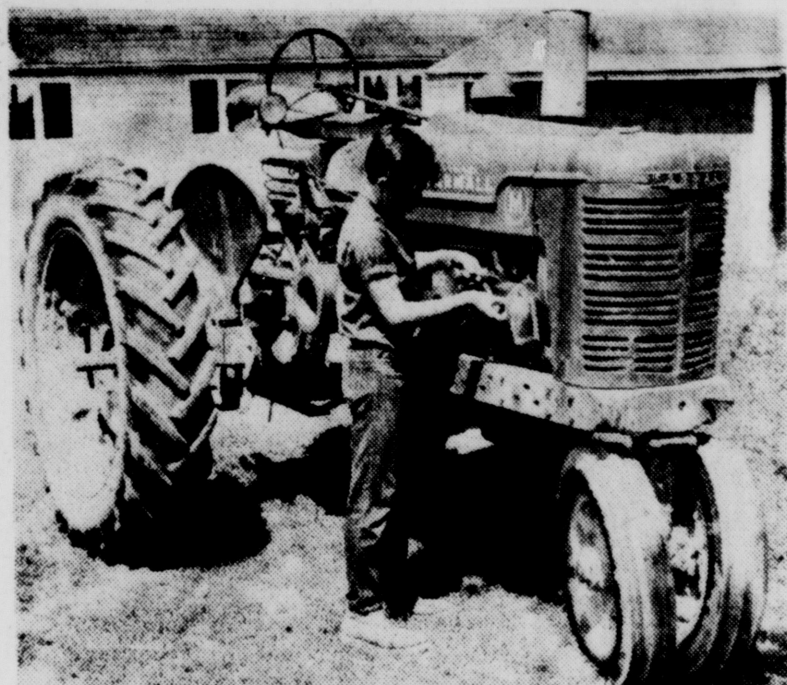

Meanwhile, there was no move in the United Nations to resume the debate which ended a week ago with the invitation by the Security Council for both North and South Viet Nam to send information dealing with the U.S. complaint of aggression.

On a more positive note, Pope Paul VI last week offered the prestige of his office in advancing international peacekeeping efforts. The Pope, in the first encyclical of his pontificate, expressed a desire "to intervene, where an opportunity presents itself, to assist the contending parties to find honorable and fraternal solutions to their disputes."

The encyclical was a 15,000-word message bearing the English title "The Paths of the Church." (The formal title is "Ecclesiam Suam," Latin for "His Church" which are the opening words of the encyclical.)

Freedom Bell Chimes

Also in the news during the week: The West Berlin Freedom Bell chimed for an hour to observe the third anniversary of the wall; in New York Herbert Hoover, his 32nd book just published and another on the way, celebrated his 90th birthday; in Atlanta, cafeteria owner Lester Maddox solved his integration problem — by closing his restaurant; and in Rio de Janeiro the police solved their illegal parking problem — by deflating the tires of violators.

Blast Kills One

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An explosion apparently caused by leaking gas blew up a restaurant in suburban Glenside today, killing at least one person and seriously injuring seven or more.

The blast, heard for miles, shattered windows in more than 50 houses and shops in the area. The dead man was identified as Duke George Jr., of North Hills, another suburb.

And this is an outrageous proposition, an affront to the state's voters and to the U.S. Senate.

New York Post—When Robert F. Kennedy's name first cropped up as a possibility for the nomination last spring, we wrote that "We unhesitatingly welcome the suggestion that make New York his home and the base of his political operation."

The argument that he would be an "interloper" did not impress us then. It does not do so now.

Rochester Democrat & Chronicle—True, the attorney general would be no ordinary candidate, but even the magic name of Kennedy would not spare him the charge of "carpetbagger."

Buffalo Evening News—Until now, the whole idea of handing the nomination over to a complete outsider has seemed like some kind of absurd joke. But apparently it is a joke we are going to have to take seriously.

Saratoga Springs Saratogian—Our first reaction... is: Why should a "carpetbagger" have any right to try to represent the state of New York? Our second reaction is: Why should Massachusetts have three senators?

Workless Rate Drops Below 5% First in 4 Yrs.

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economic boom passed new milestones last month as factory production scored an 11th consecutive advance and the government reported a breakthrough in the fight against unemployment.

Industrial production for July was 5½ per cent higher than a year ago and stood at 132.7 on the Federal Reserve Board's index of factory and mine output that uses 100 for the 1957-59 period as a base.

The Labor Department, analyzing employment and unemployment figures for the first seven months of 1964, reported that employment during the period averaged 1.6 million above 1963 levels. At the same time the labor force increased by an average of only 1.4 million.

"Recent improvements appear to have broken the 10-year upward trend in unemployment," the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics concluded.

Last week, the bureau had put the July jobless rate at a seasonally adjusted figure of 4.9 per cent — the first time in 4½ years the rate dropped below 5 per cent.

The average unemployment rate for the first seven months of 1964, the bureau said, was 5.3 per cent, compared with 5.7 per cent during the same period last year.

Automobile production continued at a record level, although there were some cutbacks in preparation for the annual model changeover.

Fulbright Warns Of Risky Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said today that GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater is conservative but has "an unrelenting conscience" that could bring "risky changes in our national life."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and an old critic of Goldwater's views, ridiculed in a prepared Senate speech statements the Republican nominee has made on major issues.

Quoting liberally from Goldwater's book, "Conscience of a Conservative," Fulbright said the Arizona senator could be "counted on to follow the dictates of his conscience even though it sometimes dictates things that even he must find alarming."

The Rev. Morris R. Dwyer of St. Mary's Church, Hudson, was charged of "carpetbaggering" Cole for about three hours to come down from the top of the bridge. Police agencies reportedly climbed part way up the span and tried to talk Cole out of the suicide plan.

Father Dwyer's pleadings finally persuaded the youth to climb down to the roadway that crosses the bridge. Cole was taken in custody without a struggle. His parents were notified and went to Claverack State Police headquarters.

After psychiatric examination by Dr. Bardwell, Cole was permitted to go home. Troopers said no reason was given for Cole's action.

The investigation was in charge of State Police Lieut. Supervisor John Nadig of Loudonville, who had been summoned to the scene by local authorities.

sions of the face and sprained neck, troopers said.

A chain reaction collision involving three cars occurred at 4:30 p. m. yesterday on Route 209 south of Napanoch. Ellen, 30, of Napanoch, was driven by David Mekulik, 30, of Napanoch, was stopped for traffic when his car was hit in the rear by a vehicle operated by Joseph Grundwald, 41, of Kerhonkson. His car had been hit in the rear by one driven by Raymond Black, 18, of Ellenville, according to state troopers.

At 11:45 p. m., a car operated by Joanne Everett, 17, of Napanoch, left Route 209 north of Ellenville and hit a tree. She told troopers she swerved to avoid an unidentified car that entered the highway from a parking lot on the east side of the road.

The FBI at Jackson, Miss., confirmed the bombings and said it was in touch with local authorities in both cities.

Optional Plan Is Tried On Health Care for Aged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is trying a new tactic to get a health care for the elderly program through Congress this year.

Apparently with White House blessing, four key Democratic senators introduced an optional program Friday and sent it toward a floor showdown, perhaps next week.

The measure was introduced by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., former secretary of welfare, after a meeting in Democratic leader Mike Mansfield's office with White House aides.

Significantly, the measure was cosponsored by Mansfield, assistant leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, one of the foremost among Senate Democrats pressing for health care under the Social Security system.

The plan would give Social Security beneficiaries a choice between a $7 a month increase in cash benefits or a $2 increase plus a health care plan similar to the administration-backed King-Anderson proposal.

The administration had been pushing the King-Anderson proposal in the Senate Finance Committee as an amendment to a House-passed bill that would increase Social Security benefits by 5 per cent.

The committee wound up its public hearings on the measure Friday and begins voting on provisions Monday.

France Observes Anniversary of Riviera Landing

By JOSEPH E. DYMAN

SAINT-RAPHAEL, France (AP) — On a balmy day 20 years ago today, three battle-hardened American divisions and a Free French force landed on the Riviera to open a second front in the liberation of France.

The landings in Southern France have been overshadowed by the massive Allied landing at Normandy two months before. But for Gen. Charles de Gaulle, then commander of the Free French fighters and now France's president, this was the invasion in which the French "began participating in the common victory."

De Gaulle's troops were kept out of the Normandy invasion planning, but the Allies consulted fully with De Gaulle's exile regime in Algiers on the strike at southern France.

Thus De Gaulle, on this 20th anniversary, devoted a full day to taking part in ceremonies. He joined U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in a motorcade through French towns that flew the flags of France, the United States and Britain.

In speeches along the way he recalled this was the first real effort of the French in driving the Nazis from their French homeland, and he praised the United States and Britain.

He reviewed detachments of U.S. and British troops and chatted in English with their officers.

De Gaulle did not attend ceremonies marking the Normandy landings in June. He said he was "too busy" in Paris.

U.S. Tentatively Pulls Passports Of 84 Students

NEW YORK — (AP) — The State Department has "tentatively withdrawn" the passports of 84 American youths who visited Cuba in defiance of a U. S. ban.

On their return Friday night at Kennedy Airport, three of the youths were summoned to appear Sept. 3 before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

A fourth, who met the two planes, also was William T. McConarty, chief of the Immigration and Naturalization Service unit at the airport, said the 84 passports were stamped for admission to the United States, but were not stamped revoked.

Notices of withdrawal were given the youths, and they were told to turn in their passports.

Some 40 young men and women, cheering and waving placards, met the planes as they arrived from Paris. The group had traveled via Paris and Prague to Cuba.

One of those summoned to testify before the House committee, Edward Lemanski, 24, of New York shouted: "I proudly proclaim that I'm a Communist. I'm an American or Brooklyn Communist."

Soon after their arrival the travelers issued a statement bearing 84 names and demanding that all of them be called before the House committee.

As they cleared customs, immigration officers handed them letters from the State Department informing them of the passport suspension. Many openly tore up the letters.

Man Found Dead In Church After Chase by Police

NEW YORK (AP) — Police in bulletproof vests and gas masks fired shotguns and tear gas today into a Harlem church where an armed man had barricaded himself after a chase.

They found the man dead. It was not immediately determined whether he died from police fire or took his own life.

At one point, a detective posed as a minister and a police officer locked in the church of God, Inc. to give himself up. But the man replied: "If they want me, let them come and get me."

He was identified as Frank Cody, 27, Jersey City, N. J., a white man.

Predicts Wagner Word Next Week On RFK Move

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Rose, vice chairman of the Liberal party, says the party will support Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as Democratic candidate for New York's U.S. Senate seat and predicts Mayor Robert F. Wagner will endorse Kennedy, possibly next week.

Rose said Friday that the Liberal party, which usually gets about 400,000 votes, which could swing an election, will back Kennedy if he is nominated at the State Democratic Convention Sept. 1.

Rose said he was basing predicted support by Wagner of the attorney general on an "educated guess."

Wagner, several hours after Rose had made his statement, said he would make no decision until he had seen Kennedy, which he is expected to do next week. Wagner has said Kennedy would make a good candidate but has withheld formal endorsement.

Kennedy has said he will not make the race without the mayor's "express approval."

An authoritative Washington source said Kennedy had not consulted President Johnson about any plans to run for the Senate. The source further said that Johnson feels it is entirely up to Kennedy and the people of New York.

Disenters to Kennedy's candidacy are not lacking. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, an undeclared candidate for the seat held by Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, has been busy rounding up convention delegates. He has said he will challenge any Kennedy nomination in the courts on grounds that he is not a New York resident.

Kennedy resides in Virginia and votes in Massachusetts. He is expected to attend the Democratic National Convention as a delegate from the Bay State.

Workless Rate Drops Below 5% First in 4 Yrs.

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economic boom passed new milestones last month as factory production scored an 11th consecutive advance and the government reported a breakthrough in the fight against unemployment.

Industrial production for July was 5 1/4 per cent higher than a year ago and stood at 132.7 on the Federal Reserve Board's index of factory and mine output that uses 100 for the 1957-59 period as a base.

The Labor Department, analyzing employment and unemployment figures for the first seven months of 1964, reported that employment during the period averaged 1.6 million above 1963 levels. At the same time the labor force increased by an average of only 1.4 million.

"Recent improvements appear to have broken the 10-year uptrend in unemployment," the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics concluded.

Last week, the bureau had put the July jobless rate at a seasonally adjusted figure of 4.9 per cent — the first time in 4 1/2 years the rate dropped below 5 per cent.

The average unemployment rate for the first seven months of 1964, the bureau said, was 5.3 per cent, compared with 5.7 per cent during the same period last year.

Automobile production continued at a record level, although there were some cutbacks in preparation for the annual model changeover.

Fulbright Warns Of Risky Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said today that GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater is conservative but has "an unruly conscience" that could bring "risky changes in our national life."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and an old critic of Goldwater's views, ridiculed in a prepared Senate speech statements the Republican nominee has made on major issues.

Quoting liberally from Goldwater's book, "Conscience of a Conservative," Fulbright said the Arizona senator could be "counted on to follow the dictates of his conscience even though it sometimes dictates things that even he must find alarming."

The Rev. Morris R. Dwyer of St. Mary's Church in Hudson, was summoned. He pleaded with Cole for about three hours to come down from the top of the bridge. Police agencies reportedly climbed part way up the span and tried to talk Cole out of the suicide plan.

Father Dwyer's pleadings finally persuaded the youth to climb down to the roadway that crosses the bridge. Cole was taken in custody without a struggle. His parents were notified and went to Claverack State Police headquarters.

After psychiatric examination by Dr. Bardwell, Cole was permitted to go home.

Troopers said no reason was given for Cole's action.

The investigation was in charge of State Police Lieut. Supervisor John Nadig of Loudonville, who had been summoned to the scene by local authorities.

Woman Is Injured

sions of the face and sprained neck, troopers said.

A chain reaction collision involving three cars occurred at 4:30 p. m. yesterday on Route 209 south of Napanoch. Ellenville troopers said a car driven by David Mekulip, 30, of Napanoch, was stopped for traffic when his car was hit in the rear by a vehicle operated by Joseph Grundwald, 41, of Kerhonkson.

His car had been hit in the rear by one driven by Raymond Block, 18, of Ellenville, according to state troopers.

At 11:45 p. m., a car operated by Joanne Everett, 17, of Napanoch, left Route 209 north of Ellenville and hit a tree. She told troopers she swerved to avoid an unidentified car that entered the highway from a parking lot on the east side of the road.

The FBI at Jackson, Miss., confirmed the bombings and said it was in touch with local authorities in both cities.

At Natchez, Miss., 65 miles northwest of McComb, a Negro tavern next door to a house used by Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee members, burned to the ground late Friday night after it had been ripped by an explosion.

The FBI at Jackson, Miss., confirmed the bombings and said it was in touch with local authorities in both cities.

Thus De Gaulle, on this 20th anniversary, devoted a full day to taking part in ceremonies. He joined U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in a motorcade through French towns that flew the flags of France, the United States and Britain.

In speeches along the way he recalled this was the first effort of the French in driving the Nazis from their French homeland, and he praised the United States and Britain.

He reviewed detachments of U.S. and British troops and chatted in English with their officers.

Optional Plan Is Tried on Health Care for Aged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is trying a new tactic to get a health care for the elderly program through Congress this year.

Apparently with White House blessing, four key Democratic senators introduced an optional program Friday and sent it toward a floor showdown, perhaps next week.

The measure was introduced by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., former secretary of welfare, after a meeting in Democratic leader Mike Mansfield's office with White House aides.

Significantly, the measure was cosponsored by Mansfield, assistant leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, one of the foremost among Senate Democrats pressing for health care under the Social Security system.

The plan would give Social Security beneficiaries a choice between a $7 a month increase in cash benefits or a $2 increase plus a health care plan similar to the administration-backed King-Anderson proposal.

The administration had been pushing the King-Anderson proposal in the Senate Finance Committee as an amendment to a House-passed bill that would increase Social Security benefits by 3 per cent.

The committee wound up its public hearings on the measure Friday and begins voting on provisions Monday.

France Observes Anniversary of Riviera Landing

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

SAINT-RAPHAEL, France (AP) — On a balmy day 20 years ago today, three battle-hardened American divisions and a Free French force landed on the Riviera to open a second front in the liberation of France.

The landings in Southern France have been overshadowed by the massive Allied landing at Normandy two months before. But for Gen. Charles de Gaulle, then commander of the Free French fighters and now France's president, this was the invasion in which the French "began participating in the common victory."

De Gaulle's troops were kept out of the Normandy invasion planning, but the Allies consulted fully with De Gaulle's exile regime in Algiers on the strike at southern France.

Thus De Gaulle, on this 20th anniversary, devoted a full day to taking part in ceremonies. He joined U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen in a motorcade through French towns that flew the flags of France, the United States and Britain.

In speeches along the way he recalled this was the first effort of the French in driving the Nazis from their French homeland, and he praised the United States and Britain.

He reviewed detachments of U.S. and British troops and chatted in English with their officers.

De Gaulle did not attend ceremonies marking the Normandy landings in June. He said he was "too busy" in Paris.

U.S. Tentatively Pulls Passports Of 84 Students

NEW YORK — (AP) — The State Department has "tentatively withdrawn" the passports of 84 American youths who visited Cuba in defiance of a U. S. ban.

On their return Friday night at Kennedy Airport, three of the youths were summoned to appear Sept. 3 before the House Un-American Activities Committee. A fourth, who met the two planes, also was William T. McNamara, chief of the Immigration and Naturalization Service unit at the airport, said the 84 passports were stamped for admission to the United States, but were not stamped revoked.

Notices of withdrawal were given the youths, and they were told to turn in their passports. Some 40 young men and women, cheering and waving placards, met the planes as they arrived from Paris. The group had traveled via Paris and Prague to Cuba.

One of those summoned to testify before the House committee, Edward Lemansky, 24, of New York shouted: "I proudly proclaim that I'm a Communist. I'm an American or Brooklyn Communist."

Soon after their arrival the travelers issued a statement bearing 84 names and demanding that all of them be called before the House committee.

As they cleared customs, immigration officers handed them letters from the State Department informing them of the passport suspension. Many openly tore up the letters.

Man Found Dead In Church After Chase by Police

NEW YORK (AP) — Police-men in bulletproof vests and gas masks fired shotguns and tear gas today into a Harlem church where an armed man had barricaded himself after a chase.

They found the man dead. It was not immediately determined whether he died from police fire or took his own life.

At one point, a detective posed as a minister and begged the man locked in the Church of God, Inc. to give himself up. But the man replied: "If they want me, let them come and get me."

He was identified as Frank Cody, 27, Jersey City, N. J., a white man.

Predicts Wagner Word Next Week On RFK Move

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Rose, vice chairman of the Liberal party, says the party will support Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as Democratic candidate for New York's U.S. Senate seat and predicts Mayor Robert F. Wagner will endorse Kennedy, possibly next week.

Rose said Friday that the Liberal party, which usually gets about 400,000 votes, which could swing an election, will back Kennedy if he is nominated at the State Democratic Convention Sept. 1.

Rose said he was basing predicted support by Wagner of the attorney general on an "educated guess."

Wagner, several hours after Rose had made his statement, said he would make no decision until he had seen Kennedy, which he is expected to do next week. Wagner has said Kennedy would make a good candidate but has withheld formal endorsement. Kennedy has said he will not make the race without the mayor's "express approval."

An authoritative Washington source said Kennedy had not consulted President Johnson about any plans to run for the Senate. The source further said that Johnson feels it is entirely up to Kennedy and the people of New York.

Dissenters to Kennedy's candidacy are not lacking. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, an undeclared candidate for the seat held by Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, has been busy rounding up convention delegates. He has said he will challenge any Kennedy nomination in the courts on grounds that he is not a New York resident.

Kennedy resides in Virginia and votes in Massachusetts. He is expected to attend the Democratic National Convention as a delegate from the Bay State.

Dear Abby . . .

Food For Thought!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 15 and I think I know why kids end up in parked cars doing what they shouldn't.

Boys have started coming to my house along with girls, and my Dad is already complaining about the noise, and not having any privacy anymore. I have always brought my girl friends to my house to watch television or just to talk, or to make lemonade and stuff, but this year it's different. Sometimes I think Dad hates to see me grow up.

I'd rather have a boy come to my house than go out on a date with one and I should think my Dad would prefer that, too. But if he keeps grumbling about the TV program we're watching instead of going to watch the other TV, he'll make my friends self-conscious and they won't come back, and I won't want to stay home evenings either.

We live in a small town and except for movies, where can we go that doesn't cost a lot more than kids our age have to spend? Most of my friends have the same trouble with their folks. They say we make too much noise, our dances are silly, our ideas are kooky. They criticize our hair, and clothes and our choice of friends. No wonder kids want cars! They want to get as far away from home as possible.

I really don't want to go off in a car with a boy. I just want a place where my friends can come and have fun and act like teenagers without feeling guilty about being one. To my way of thinking, it's better to have room to move around, play games, and make fudge than to run off some place in a car because, if you keep driving, you get to speeding just for fun, and if you park somewhere, you might just go too far if you aren't careful.

I wonder how many kids who end up in trouble had these same thoughts and fears? I wish you would tell parents, Abby, that we kids aren't bad. We just want to get together, and home is our favorite spot, if only we were made to feel welcome.

SPEAKING FOR TEENS

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in regard to the letter signed "DISAPPOINTED IN DOCTORS." The writer claimed her mother was ill and was ordered to bed by her doctor. When the mother worsened, the daughter phoned the doctor, who said, "There is nothing I can do. What do you expect from a 73-year-old woman?" He refused to make a house call and the mother died the next day.

This is hard to believe. What probably happened was this: When the doctor first saw the patient, he advised the daughter to put her in a hospital for a thorough examination and tests. The daughter refused and attempted to care for her mother at home. When the mother grew worse, the daughter called the doctor and he probably said, "Since you did not let me give her a thorough examination, what do you expect from a 73-year-old woman who has not been properly cared for?"

Abby, the image of rich, country-club, golf-playing doctors is a myth. Doctors as a group are dedicated. What other professionals are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week? Tell "DISAPPOINTED" to look to her own conscience regarding her mother. Blaming the doctor will not absolve her guilt for neglecting her mother.

Dear Abby . . .

Food For Thought!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 15 and I think I know why kids end up in parked cars doing what they shouldn't.

Boys have started coming to my house along with girls, and my Dad is already complaining about the noise, and not having any privacy any more. I have always brought my girl friends to my house to watch television or just to talk, or to make lemonade and stuff, but this year it's different. Sometimes I think Dad hates to see me grow up.

I'd rather have a boy come to my house than go out on a date with one and I should think my Dad would prefer that, too. But if he keeps grumbling about the TV program we're watching instead of going to watch the other TV, he'll make my friends self-conscious and they won't come back, and I won't want to stay home evenings either.

We live in a small town and except for movies, where can we go that doesn't cost a lot more than kids our age have to spend? Most of my friends have the same trouble with their folks. They say we make too much noise, our dances are silly, our ideas are kooky. They criticize our hair, and clothes and our choice of friends. No wonder kids want cars! They want to get as far away from home as possible.

I really don't want to go off in a car with a boy. I just want a place where my friends can come and have fun and act like teenagers without feeling guilty about being one. To my way of thinking, it's better to have room to move around, play games, and make fudge than to run off some place in a car because, if you keep driving, you get to speeding just for fun, and if you park somewhere, you might just go too far if you aren't careful.

I wonder how many kids who end up in trouble had these same thoughts and fears? I wish you would tell parents, Abby, that we kids aren't bad. We just want to get together, and home is our favorite spot, if only we were made to feel welcome.

SPEAKING FOR TEENS

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in regard to the letter signed "DISAPPOINTED IN DOCTORS." The writer claimed her mother was ill and was ordered to bed by her doctor. When the mother worsened, the daughter phoned the doctor, who said, "There is nothing I can do. What do you expect from a 73-year-old woman?" He refused to make a house call and the mother died the next day.

This is hard to believe. What probably happened was this: When the doctor first saw the patient, he advised the daughter to put her in a hospital for a thorough examination and tests. The daughter refused and attempted to care for her mother at home. When the mother grew worse, the daughter called the doctor and he probably said, "Since you did not let me give her a thorough examination, what do you expect from a 73-year-old woman who has not been properly cared for?"

Abby, the image of rich, country-club, golf-playing doctors is a myth. Doctors as a group are dedicated. What other professionals are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week? Tell "DISAPPOINTED" to look to her own conscience regarding her mother. Blaming the doctor will not absolve her guilt for neglecting her mother.

PUBLIC SPEAKER'S "THANK YOU"

Q—I do a great deal of public speaking. When I finish speaking I always end by saying, "Thank you." I have always felt that this was the polite thing to do. I have been told that this is belittling to me and that a speaker never thanks an audience for listening unless making a political speech or speaking in behalf of a cause.

A—Your "thank you" is quite correct. It is really more of a signal that you have finished speaking than a "thank you" to your audience for listening to you.

Exact Bus Fare

Q—Nothing irritates me more, especially when there is a long line of people waiting to get on the bus, than to have people hand the driver bills to change, thus delaying the service. I think these people are very lacking in consideration of others. I always try to have the exact change ready. Shouldn't they?

A—I definitely agree with you that passengers should try to have the exact fare ready to drop into the box, not only out of consideration for their fellow passengers, but to make the bus driver's demanding job a little easier.

A Comfortable Distance

Q—Is there any rule as to what distance from the table one must sit?

A—None, except that of personal comfort. One should not, however, sit so close that elbows are bent like a cricket's nor so far back that food is likely to be dropped in transit from plate to mouth.

West Coast Designer Reveals Some Stark Fall Fashion Styles

By Jean Sprain Wilson
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sexless," muttered the males. "Divine," murmured the females as James Galanos had the last word on what the moneyed miss will wear this winter.

Other American collections opened three months ago and the French ones recently, but the California designer protected himself from style plagiarism by waiting until the season was practically here before revealing his own designs.

His only concessions to the trousers trend here and abroad are quilted Chinese brocade hostess jump suits with sleeveless winglike velvet coats over them.

As far as the topos fashion madness goes, Galanos conceded to bareness on the spine side of the body only.

A self-fabric bra was a part of the otherwise backless to the waist number, with gem dandies dangling from the back band.

But from the very first number—a black semi-fitted princess line with rounded button-detailed sleeves—it was obvious Thursday that architecture of the costume was more important to Galanos than the framework of the lady under it.

Among the slim coat and suit styling details were pocket flaps, tiny lapels, welt seams, side-wrapped and apron-pleated skirts, belts banded across the front, and some back belts slung so low you could swing on them.

For the cocktail crowd, Galanos recommended starkly simple bias-cut wools or crepes with long sleeves and hem-flared skirts. For the discotheque enthusiasts the dresses were bolder, with V-plunges, halter necks or shoestring straps uncovering pale raw bones.

In these as well as the paisley chiffons with jewels on them the size of doorknobs, or the Grecian-draped or pleated silk numbers these gaunt girls appeared to be too fragile to journey the full stretch of gold carpeting under the hotel ballroom's massive chandeliers.

Yet, at another point they looked like rugged pioneers of the Old West in dark, long-sleeved, bias-cut wool dresses hemmed just above the ankle to reveal heavy stockings and T-e strapped, square-heeled shoes, all the same dull color.

From the comments in the room it appears it will take some hardy fashion pioneers to put across this too-poor look in a mudless, air-conditioned 20th century.

Flying First Lady Is Now Walking Bird

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — Barnstorming Lady Bird Johnson won over the Crow Indians and headed for Mormon territory today as "Pretty Walking Bird."

That's the name bestowed on the First Lady in a colorful tribal ceremony in which she was adopted by the plains tribe on a visit to their vast reservation near Billings, Mont., Friday.

Busy Day Ahead

Today Mrs. Johnson's schedule took her to Utah to ride an aerial tramway, meet with David O. McKay, 90, president of the 2-million-member Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons) and speak at the University of Utah.

Far from a simple sightseeing excursion, the four-day Western trip of the President's wife was taking on more and more political significance. She was treated to a sampling of pro-Goldwater sentiment in this tourist spot nestled beneath the ruggedly spectacular Teton Mountains. "We Want Barry" signs were waved amid a crowd of some 2,000 that filled the town's park for a welcome for the First Lady Friday night.

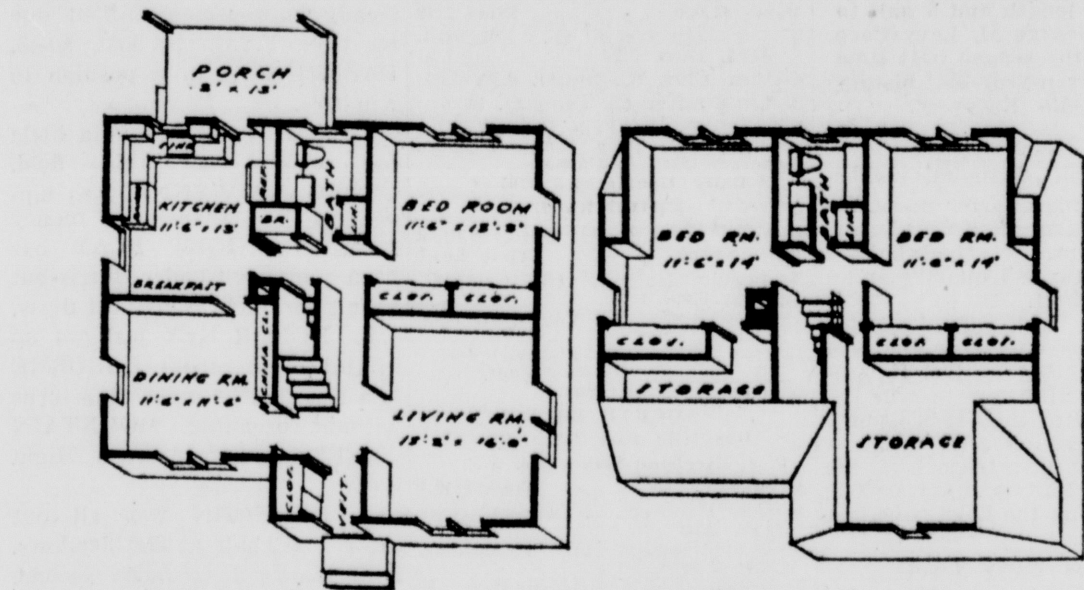

2,000 Miles in 7 Hours
Mrs. Johnson covered more than 2,000 miles, spent more than seven hours in her chartered plane, and took in a panorama of the West in her 18-hour first day of travel. She concentrated on Montana, where several thousand turned out to see her at the Billings Airport and the Crow Reservation.

At the Crow Reservation tribal chiefs and warrior braves in costume and eagle feather headdress, with silver bells jangling on their feet, escorted Mrs. Johnson to a dancing, singing ceremony in her honor in a new gymnasium of their tribal building.

The adoption of the First Lady into the tribe came as a surprise. The chiefs had voted in secret session the night before her arrival to accord her the honor and to give her the tribal name of "Dagah - Deedit - Chish" — Pretty Walking Bird. Two squaws then took the First Lady by the arm to a war dance before the tribal chiefs and the assembly.

JFK Last Honored
Mrs. Johnson, surprised, smilingly stepped with them to the beat of a huge drum pounded by eight Indians. Later the two oldest members of the tribe, Lizzie Yellowtail, 100, and Plain Feather, 87, invoked prayers for her.

The last person similarly honored by the Crows was the late President John F. Kennedy, adopted by the tribe when he was a senator.

Upstairs Rooms Can Wait When Building This Home

Bedrooms Six
Bathrooms Three
Closets Nine
Cubage 20,000
Dimensions 36' x 31'

For those who are eager to build yet have limited capital, it would be hard to beat the "Pioneer." This house has several things "going for it." It requires a minimum sized lot, it's simple to build and the second floor can be left unfinished until needed or finances improve.

The "Pioneer" is this week's choice of the Home of the Week Plan Service.

No one needs to be hesitant about where to put this house. It's so compact, it will fit on the smallest lot, yet it could be placed nicely on a larger plot. Overall dimensions, excluding the porch, are only 31 feet by 36 feet.

Wise Choice

Its two-story height plus the wide choice of wide claddings make it look larger than it actually is. Being almost square, there is an illusion of bigness, especially when one looks at it from the side.

For the couple without children, or whose children have grown up, the first floor will make a complete, satisfying home. Life can be pleasant indeed in this combination of bedroom, kitchen, living room and dining room.

Most notable of the "comfort" features is the number of spacious closets. There are two in the bedroom which take up one complete side of the room, and there's one just to the left of the vestibule as you enter the front door. Also, to whet the imagination of the housewife, there's a long china closet in the dining room.

Plenty of Light

Double windows on two sides of the living room provide plenty of light and ventilation. Small panes add to the good looks of the house, although others could be substituted to suit different tastes.

Many people will approve the separate dining room as a sign of gracious living. However, there's a breakfast nook in the kitchen which could serve as a permanent dining area. That would release the room for other use — possibly as a library with the closet filled with books instead of china.

The kitchen is well-shielded from the living room and bedroom. It's pleasant, too, with a door opening out on a small porch. By adding screening, or screening plus glass, one could create a fine spot for warm weather dining or relaxation.

Glass would also make it an effective "windbreak" in cold or stormy weather. If, and when finished, the second floor plans call for two bedrooms, each 11'6" by 14'. A bedroom with linen closet is placed between them for maximum convenience.

Here again, there's enough closet space for the most demanding person. There's also space under the eaves for storage, a welcome arrangement in almost any family.

The plan of the "Pioneer" is acceptable to both VA and FHA.

Answer: Tiles have two distinct advantages over Linoleum. One: is the average householder can install them himself; second: for a cut-up room there tends to be less waste than with Linoleum by the yard.

Keep Mud Out With Planning

If you want to keep mud out of the house, there is a simple remedy: just build a mud room.

What's a mud room? Why, it's a special de-mudding spot where the kids can shed their outdoor garments, kick off their muddy shoes, and wash their face and hands before they enter the main part of the home.

The perfect spot for the mud room is just inside the kitchen door. It is best to have a separate room. There should be a low bench where the kids can sit while dressing or undressing from the play clothes. There should be plenty of hangers or a good sized clothes storage unit.

There should also be a wash basin with plenty of soap and towels. Some mud rooms even have a shower.

The mud room can be paneled in some tough wood like Douglas fir, so that it can be washed down occasionally without harm to the surface. Fir panel boards with a tongue-and-groove pattern and slight joint make ideal walls for a room like this where there is bound to be lots of rough housing and much wear and tear.

Cautious Player Can Make Hand

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

South can make four hearts against any defense. I will go one step further: any south player who listened to the bidding might well find the winning play.

The key to the winning play is West's vulnerable double of the opening heart bid.

West opens the king of clubs. East plays the five and South false-plays with the eight, but the play does him no good. West thinks a while and shifts to the jack of spades.

At this point, the simple play is for South to take a trump finesse. It loses and if West again refuses to lead a second club, South will have to lose two more club tricks in the cool of the evening.

If South stops to review the bidding, he will note that West doubled one heart for takeout. He had little enough for that double with the king of hearts and almost surely would not have doubled without that card. Hence, South should consider an end play.

The end play wins. South cashes the ace of trumps and the rest of the spades. Then he plays ace and king of diamonds and ruffs the last diamond. West is thrown in with the king of trumps and must either lead another club or give South a ruff and discard.

Woman Is Injured In 2-Car Mishap On B'way Friday

One person was injured in a two-car collision about 8:31 p. m. Friday when a car driven by Robert Harvey of 21 Elizabeth Street was sideswiped on Broadway near Henry Street, police reported.

Treated by her personal physician for slight head injuries was Iris Harvey, 21 Elizabeth Street, a passenger in the damaged vehicle.

A police report that Harvey's car and another operated by Edwin E. Lindhurst Sr., 114 Tremper Avenue, were proceeding north on Broadway side by side at the time of the mishap.

Trying to avoid hitting a double-parked car, police said Lindhurst swerved too far and scratched Harvey's car on the right side.

Lindhurst's car was not damaged.

Both of the vehicles involved were driving slowly. Patrolmen George Barringer and Ira Hadsel were in charge.

Two Men Killed, Were Returning Home From Work

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Two Syracuse men riding in a pickup truck on the way home from work were killed Friday in a collision with a tractor-trailer on the State Thruway west of the State Fair interchange.

The victims were identified as Lamar Jackson, 34, and Nykola Brezicki, about 50. State Police said they were riding in the front seat of the pickup truck.

Troopers said the collision occurred when the eastbound truck tried to pass the tractor-trailer. The lighter vehicle shot across the center mall and the westbound lane and crashed into woods along the superhighway.

The men were employed by the Eastern Railroad Builders of Syracuse and were returning from a job in Watkins Glen.

Flying First Lady Is Now Walking Bird

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — Barnstorming Lady Bird Johnson won over the Crow Indians and headed for Mormon territory today as "Pretty Walking Bird."

That's the name bestowed on the First Lady in a colorful tribal ceremony in which she was adopted by the plains tribe on a visit to their vast reservation near Billings, Mont., Friday.

Today Mrs. Johnson's scheduled tour to Utah to ride an aerial tramway, meet with David O. McKay, 90, president of the 2-million-member Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons) and speak at the University of Utah.

Far from a simple sightseeing excursion, the four-day Western trip of the President's wife was taking on more and more political significance.

She was treated to a sampling of pro-Goldwater sentiment in this tourist spot nestled beneath the ruggedly spectacular Teton Mountains. "We Want Barry" signs were waved amid a crowd of some 2,000 that filled the town's park for a welcome for the First Lady Friday night.

2,000 Miles in 7 Hours
Mrs. Johnson spent more than 2,000 miles, spent more than seven hours in her chartered plane, and took in a panorama of the West in her 18-hour first day of travel. She concentrated on Montana, where several thousand turned out to see her at the Billings Airport and the Crow Reservation.

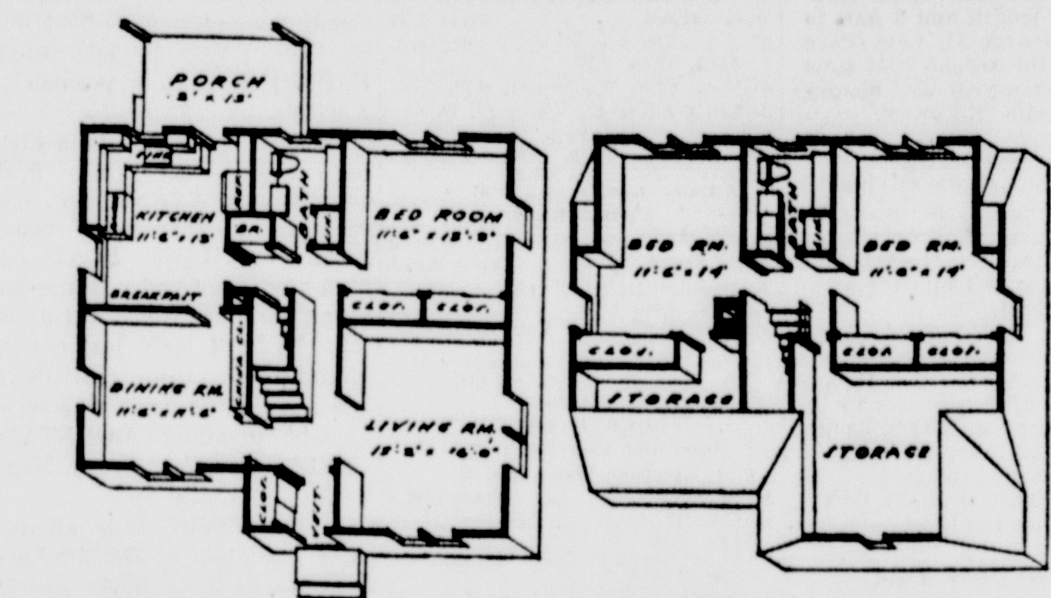

At the Crow Reservation tribal chiefs and warrior braves in costume and eagle feather headdress, with silver bells jangling on their feet, escorted Mrs. Johnson to a dancing, singing ceremony in her honor in a new gymnasium of their tribal building.

The adoption of the First Lady into the tribe came as a surprise. The chiefs had voted in secret session the night before her arrival to accord her the honor and to give her the tribal name of "Dagak - Deedit - Chish" — Pretty Walking Bird.

Two squaws then took the First Lady by the arm to a war dance before the tribal chiefs and the assembly.

JFK Last Honored
Mrs. Johnson, surprised, smilingly stepped with them to the beat of a huge drum pounded by eight Indians. Later the two oldest members of the tribe, Lizzie Yellowtail, 100, and Plain Feather, 97, invoked prayers for her.

The last person similarly honored by the Crows was the late President John F. Kennedy, adopted by the tribe when he was a senator.

For those who are eager to build yet have limited capital, it would be hard to beat the "Pioneer." This house has the "Pioneer" going for it. It requires a minimum sized lot, it's simple to build and the second floor can be left unfinished until needed or finances improve.

The "Pioneer" is this week's choice of the Home of the Week Plan Service.

No one needs to be hesitant about where to put this house. It's so compact, it will fit on the smallest lot, yet it could be placed nicely on a larger plot.

Overall dimensions, excluding the porch, are only 31 feet by 36 feet.

Wise Choice
Its two-story height plus the wise choice of wide clappings make it look larger than it actually is. Being almost square, there is an illusion of bigness, especially when one looks at it from the side.

For the couple without children, or whose children have grown up, the first floor will make a complete, satisfying home. Life can be pleasant indeed in this combination of bedroom, kitchen, living room and dining room.

Most notable of the "comfort" features is the number of spacious closets. There are two in the bedroom which take up one complete side of the room, and there's one just to the left of the vestibule as you enter the front door. Also, to whet the imagination of the housewife, there's a long china closet in the dining room.

Plenty of Light
Double windows on two sides of the living room provide plenty of light and ventilation. Small panes add to the good looks of the house, although others could be substituted to suit different tastes.

Question: What is the advantage of Floor Tiles over Linoleum by the yard?

Answer: Tiles have two distinct advantages over Linoleum. One: is the average householder can install them himself; second: for a cut-up room there tends to be less waste than with Linoleum by the yard.

Keep Mud Out With Planning

If you want to keep mud out of the house, there is a simple remedy; just build a mud room. What's a mud room? Why, it's a special de-mudding spot where the kids can shed their muddy shoes, kick off their muddy shoes, and wash their face and hands before they enter the main part of the home.

The perfect spot for the mud room is just inside the kitchen door. It is best to have a separate room. There should be a low bench where the kids can sit while dressing or undressing from the play clothes. There should be plenty of hangers or a good sized clothes storage unit.

There should also be a wash basin with plenty of soap and towels. Some mud rooms even have a shower.

Here again, there's enough closet space for the most demanding person. There's also space under the eaves for storage, a welcome arrangement in almost any family.

The plan of the "Pioneer" is acceptable to both VA and FHA.

• BRIDGE Cautious Player Can Make Hand

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

South can make four hearts against any defense. I will go one step further: any south player who listened to the bidding might well find the winning play.

The key to the winning play is West's vulnerable double of the opening heart bid.

West opens the king of clubs. East plays the five and South false-cards with the eight, but the play does him no good. West thinks a while and shifts to the jack of spades.

At this point, the simple play is for South to take a trump finesse. It loses and if West again refuses to lead a second club, South will have to lose two more club tricks in the cool of the evening.

If South stops to review the bidding, he will note that West doubled one heart for takeout. He had little enough for that double with the king of hearts and almost surely would not have doubled without that card. Hence, South should consider an end play.

The end play wins. South cashes the ace of trumps and the rest of the spades. Then he plays ace and king of diamonds and ruffs the last diamond. West is thrown in with the king of trumps and must either lead another club or give South a ruff and discard.

Bob Bolin Hurls One-Hitter; Killebrew, Chance Doing Well

Giants Defeat Braves, 3-0; Mets Lose Two

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Down in Hickory Grove, S.C., where Bob Bolin comes from, they'll tell you the 6-foot-4 right-hander is big enough to go bear-huntin' with a switch.

Only they don't have any bears in the National League. They've got Cardinals and Dodgers and Reds and Pirates and even Mets. But no bears.

So, at the request of manager Al Dark, who desperately needs some pitching help, Bolin went huntin' Braves last night. And he shot them down with a sparkling one-hitter that kept San Francisco within leading distance of the league lead.

Only a line single by Milwaukee catcher Ed Bailey spoiled Bolin's bid for a no-hitter. He got home run support from Willie McCovey, Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays in the 3-0 victory that left the second-place Giants four games back of Philadelphia.

Gain Half Game
The first young Phils picked up a half game with a double victory over the New York Mets, 6-1, and 6-4 behind the pitching of veteran Jim Bunning and rookie Rick Wise.

Pittsburgh and Chicago split a doubleheader in the only National League day action, the Pirates winning the first 3-2 and the Cubs the nightcap 4-2. Houston fought off Cincinnati 3-2, and St. Louis edged Los Angeles 4-3 in the others.

Bolin, a hard-throwing 25-year-old who has spent four years as a relief man and spot starter for the Giants, was pressed into duty by Dark to help bolster the Giants' injury-depleted pitching corps.

His performance may have been enough to win him a permanent starting role. He walked six, struck out the same and kept his composure when two men reached on errors.

35th for Mays
The homers—the only hits the Giants got—were more than enough support. It was Mays' 35th, Cepeda's 21st and McCovey's 17th.

The Phils, meanwhile, had little trouble with the Mets. Bunning, who had pitched a perfect game the last time he worked in Shea Stadium, was touched for five hits in the opener, but won his 13th. Richie Allen had three doubles, scored two runs and drove in another.

In the second game, the 19-year-old Wise allowed only six hits before he tired in the eighth. Two of the hits were homers by New York's Ed Kranepool. Ex-Met Frank Thomas drove in five runs in the two games, including two on a seventh-inning homer in the nightcap.

Jerry Lynch's two-out homer in the ninth drove in two runs and made the difference in Pittsburgh's first game victory at Chicago. The nightcap was settled on a tie-breaking two-run homer by the Cubs' Andre Rodgers in the sixth.

The Cards bunched all their runs in the fifth inning in the victory over the Dodgers. Julian Javier drove in two with a triple, Rudy Sadecki singled in another and still another, the eventual winner, crossed on Nate Oliver's throwing error.

Walt Bond had hand in all the Colt runs. He tripled in the first against Cincinnati, scored the second and broke a 2-2 tie with his 17th homer in the seventh.

Allen's Six Hits Lead Philadelphia To Twin Sweep

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Richie Allen has been battling twin pressures all season long—and so far it's been no contest.

Philadelphia's kid third baseman was spotlighted in the spring as a sure-shot bet to be the National League's Rookie of the Year and since then has been called upon to play a key role in the Phillies' drive for their first pennant since 1950.

Neither challenge has stymied Allen, who boosted his batting average to .314 with six hits Friday night as the front-running Phils swept a doubleheader from their favorite pasties, New York's last-place Mets, 6-1 and 6-4 and went four games ahead of runner-up San Francisco.

"There's been a lot written, but there's not much I can do about it, and I don't think it's had any effect," the soft-spoken 22-year-old from Wampum, Pa., said at Shea Stadium.

"As for the pennant, I don't think I've let that affect my play, either. It's simply playing nine hard innings every game."

Gene Mauch, the Phils' non-sensational manager, is slightly more valuable on the subject. "First of all, let me say that if he hadn't done what he's done, there'd be no pennant to think about."

"As for Richie personally, nothing bothers him. He knows he's a good ballplayer and that's that. He has a thoroughly professional approach. He doesn't let a bad day get him down or a good day go to his head."

Hurley, Legion Win

Tompkins' No-Hitter

Tops Babe Ruth Action

Don Tompkins hurled a no-hitter and Hurley beat the Rotary Club, 9-3, in a Babe Ruth league game last evening.

In the other attraction, young Andy Murphy and Tom Bruck combined for a one-hitter as the Legion beat hapless Kiwanis, 11-0.

Tompkins was wild, walking nine batters and the bases on balls led to the three runs scored off his slants. He fanned 13.

Charlie Moore swatted a home run and Al Vogt had three singles for the winners. Tompkins chipped in with a double.

Murphy, a good hitting barber, slugged a homer and two singles to lead the Legion attack. The winners scored seven times in the first inning off Jay Falvey and were never in danger.

'Killer' Hits 41st Home Run; Yankees Lose

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The brass ring appears to have passed them by but Dean Chance and Harmon Killebrew aren't letting their disappointment interfere with business.

Pennant fever is extinct in Los Angeles and Minnesota but Chance hasn't stopped reeling off victories for the fourth-place Angels and Killebrew is still hitting home runs at a near-record pace for the sixth-place Twins.

Chance hurled his eighth straight victory Friday night, blanketing Washington 7-0 on two hits in the second game of a doubleheader after the Senators took the opener 7-3. Killebrew slammed his 41st homer and grabbed the major league lead in runs batted in while leading the Twins past Cleveland 7-6.

Chance, whose victory string is the longest of any American League pitcher this season, recorded his seventh shutout, tying New York's Whitey Ford for the major league leadership in that department.

Seven Games Up

Killebrew's homer lifted him seven games ahead of Babe Ruth's pace in 1927, when the Yankee immortal hit 60 in a 154-game schedule. But the Minnesota slugger trails Roger Maris' torrid 1961 clip that produced 61 homers over an expanded 162-game slate. Friday night's game was Killebrew's 113th.

Harmon also stroked a run-producing single, thereby wresting the RBI lead from Dick Stuart of Boston. Killebrew has driven in 92 runs, Stuart 91. The Baltimore Orioles, meanwhile, held their three game bulge over Chicago and dropped New York 4½ games back by edging the third-place Yankees 5-4. The White Sox buried Boston 11-1 and Kansas City outscored Detroit 5-4.

Chance, 13-5, held the Senators hitless until the fifth, when Zimmerman's smash off first baseman Vic Power went for a hit. The Washington crowd booed the decision but Don Blasingame rescued the official scorer with a clean single in the sixth.

Killebrew hit his homer in the second inning and singled home one of three Minnesota runs in the fifth. Rich Rollins' sacrifice fly delivered the deciding run in the sixth after Cleveland tied the score in the top of the inning on Joe Azcue's three-run homer.

Brooks Robinson's three-run homer and the clutch relief pitching of Harvey Haddix and Dick Hall carried Baltimore to its 10th victory in 16 season meetings with the Yankees. Robinson connected off reliever Steve Hamilton in the sixth, giving the Orioles a 4-2 lead, and Earl Robinson singled home what turned out to be the deciding run in the seventh.

Haddix Saves Big Game With Solid Relief Job

By JOE REICHLER
BALTIMORE (AP)—On May 26, 1959, Harvey Haddix turned in what many believe to be the finest pitching performance ever. That night Haddix hurled 12 perfect innings for Pittsburgh against Milwaukee, but lost 1-0.

Friday night, five years, two months and three weeks later, Haddix, pitching for the Baltimore Orioles, worked only parts of two innings against the New York Yankees. In neither inning did he pitch perfect ball but Manager Hank Bauer and the rest of the Orioles will tell you it was the best relief job turned in by a Baltimore pitcher this year.

All the drama was packed into one inning, the seventh, when Haddix strode out of the bullpen and stopped the Yankees cold to pave the way for a 5-4 Baltimore triumph that boosted the Orioles' first place lead over third-place New York to 4½ games.

The first batter he faced was Roger Maris and Harvey disposed of the dangerous left-handed hitter on three pitches, all strikes. Mickey Mantle was the next hitter. Haddix purposely walked him filling the bases.

Now it was the switch hitting Tommy Tresh and Haddix struck him out, too, also on three pitches.

The danger was over. Barber's victory, his fourth over the Yankees, was saved.

Billy Daniels Wins Upset Split Decision Over Jones

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Daniels, a Brooklyn barber whose manager had given up on him as a fighter, today was riding high while Doug Jones, the top-ranked heavyweight contender, still was wondering what happened in the Madison Square Garden ring Friday night.

Daniels, a former contender who grabbed a sub's role against Jones on 24-hours notice, scored a resounding upset over the man who gave Cassius Clay his toughest fight.

Two of the three officials voted for Daniels, who won a split verdict in a close and often drab 10-round television fight.

Daniels, a gangling awkward 6-foot-5 bantamweight with long arms, had lost a close decision to Jones 14 months ago in Teaneck, N.J. Billy was 3-1 underdog in the return and the crowd of about 4,000 cheered the decision.

The 27-year-old Daniels appeared on the way out of boxing when he was stopped in the third round by Germany's Karl Mildenberger last November. His manager, Julie Isaacson, gave up on him, and Billy decided to handle his own affairs.

Winner of only one fight in his last six, he was training for a bout with Cleveland Williams when he got the call to fill in for Tony Alcantara, who with a bad elbow, against Jones.

Referee Zach Clayton, 53-2, and judge Johnny Dran, 5-1-1, voted for Daniels. Judge Al Berl had it 6-4 for Jones. The AP scorecard had Jones in front 6-4.

Lyss Hanover Wins Levy Pace, Sets Record With 1:59.4 Time

Horse Is Owned By Julie Miron And Hy Greenspan

MONTICELLO — Lyss Hanover, owned by Julie Miron, president and Hy Greenspan, secretary-treasurer of Miron Lumber Co., took the lead at the three-quarter mile and came blazing down the stretch in a blistering 30.1 finish to beat 3-4 favorite Vicar Hanover by a length and a half to win the George M. Levy Pace in the seven-year-old history of Monticello Raceway.

Vernon Dancer pulled the Chestnut Colt off the rail just before the three quarter mark. He passed the tiring Red Carpet and Sheer Genius, who had battled to a fantastic 28.4 quarter and a 59 second half.

The colt took the lead for keeps just past the pole and held off a late thrust by Bill Haughton's Vicar Hanover to win the major share of the $13,923 purse and set a mark for the stretch in the seven-year-old history of Monticello Raceway.

The great Overtrack held the previous record, a nifty 2:00.2, set in winning the Levy pace last season.

Takes Early Lead
Sheer Genius, coupled with Vicar Hanover in the Haughton stable and driven by Irving Roberts, took the early lead. As they swung past the paddock turn for the first time, Clarence Martin brought Red Carpet on the outside and the two pace setters were only noses apart in that blistering 59 second half.

As they straightened out in the backstretch, Dancer pulled Lyss Hanover off the rail and made his bid. Haughton followed the winner but was forced to go four wide. Lyss finally moved out in front for keeps around the final turn and kept the margin in the run for home.

Vicar Hanover managed to nip late closing Benzoni Hanover by a nose for place honors. Benzoni Hanover was another length and a half in front of Red Carpet, which faded to fourth.

National Record
The 1:59.4 time is a record this season for three-year-olds competing on a half mile track. Vicar Hanover held the previous mark of 2:00, set last month at Saratoga Raceway. Needless to say, this is also a Monticello mark for three-year-old pacers or trotters.

Sent off at 9-2 odds, Lyss Hanover, a third place finisher in the Messenger Stakes at Roosevelt, paid $11.60, $4.00 and $3.00. Vicar Hanover returned $2.80 and $2.30. Benzoni Hanover, with George Eholty in the sulky, paid $2.50 for show.

The Monticello track record was set in 1960 when Ted Zornow's Tar Boy clicked off 1:59.3.

Following the first four horses across the finish line were Iron Rail (Jimmy Jordan), Lopez Hanover (Bill Popfinger) and Sheer Genius.

Grid Exhibitions
The Baltimore Colts scored in the last two minutes and earned a 28-2 tie with the Detroit Lions Friday night as the pro football exhibition season opened its second weekend.

The Kansas City Chiefs also scored in the last two minutes defeating the Buffalo Bills 24-21. The Philadelphia Eagles downed the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-13 and the Oakland Raiders whipped the Denver Broncos 20-7 in Friday's other games.

Top Trotters At MR Tonight

MONTICELLO — Nine of the top three-year-old trotters in the country will go postward tonight in the Elbridge T. Gerry Trot for three-year-old geldings and colts at Monticello Raceway. A purse of $13,373 will be riding on the race.

Early favorites are Eddie Wheeler's Big John, which has drawn the coveted pole position and Bold Viking, one of the stars of the Jimmy Jordan stable. Jimmy Jordan will handle the reins behind this horse, which starts from post four.

By virtue of a second place finish behind Hambletonian favorite Ayres last week at The Meadows, Big John will have plenty of support. The brown horse has already banked more than $24,000 this season.

A Sharp Workout
Bold Viking has been idle for nearly three weeks but he went a good workout recently at Yonkers and is reported sharp for this race. The horse has won almost $50,000 this season.

Other top threats figure to be the Howard Beissinger entry of Square Deal and Speedabout and the Clarence Martin entry of Style Setter and Valiant Ruler. Local favorite Bedevil is in the field and will start from post nine, the pole position in the second tier. Other starters will be Smart Rodney and Rater Water. This race climaxes Grand Circuit at Monticello and it figures to be a fitting ending.

Giants Defeat Braves, 3-0; Mets Lose Two

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Down in Hickory Grove, S.C., where Bob Bolin comes from, they'll tell you the 6-foot-4 right-hander is big enough to go bear huntin' with a switch.

Only they don't have any bears in the National League. They've got Cardinals and Dodgers and Reds and Pirates and even Mets. But no bears.

So, at the request of manager Al Dark, who desperately needs some pitching help, Bolin went huntin' Braves last night. And he shot them down with a sparkling one-hitter that kept San Francisco within hailing distance of the league lead.

Only a line single by Milwaukee catcher Ed Bailey spoiled Bolin's bid for a no-hitter. He got home run support from Willie McCovey, Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays in the 3-0 victory that left the second-place Giants four games back of Philadelphia.

Gain Half Game

The fiery young Phils picked up a half game with a double victory over the New York Mets, 6-1 and 6-4 behind the pitching of veteran Jim Bunning and rookie Rick Wise.

Pittsburgh and Chicago split a doubleheader in the only National League day action, the Pirates winning the first 3-2 and the Cubs the nightcap 4-2. Houston fought off Cincinnati 3-2, and St. Louis edged Los Angeles 4-3 in the others.

Bolin, a hard-throwing 25-year-old who has spent four years as a relief man and spot starter for the Giants, was pressed into duty by Dark to help bolster the Giants' injury-depleted pitching corps.

His performance may have been enough to win him a permanent starting role. He walked six, struck out the same and kept his composure when two men reached on errors.

35th for Mays

The homers—the only hits the Giants got — were more than enough support. It was Mays' 35th, Cepeda's 21st and McCovey's 17th.

The Phils, meanwhile, had little trouble with the Mets. Bunning, who had pitched a perfect game the last time he worked in Shea Stadium, was touched for five hits in the opener, but won his 13th. Richie Allen had three doubles, scored two runs and drove in another.

In the second game, the 19-year-old Wise allowed only six hits before he tired in the eighth. Two of the hits were homers by New York's Ed Kranepool. Ex-Met Frank Thomas drove in five runs in the two games, including two on a seventh-inning homer in the nightcap.

Jerry Lynch's two-out homer in the ninth drove in two runs and made the difference in Pittsburgh's first game victory at Chicago. The nightcap was settled on a tie-breaking two-run homer by the Cubs' Andre Rodgers in the sixth.

The Cards bunched all their runs in the fifth inning in the victory over the Dodgers. Julian Javier drove in two with a triple, Radecki singled in another and still another, the eventual winner, crossed on Nate Oliver's throwing error.

Wait Bond had a hand in all the Colt runs. He tripled in the first against Cincinnati, scored the second and broke a 2-2 tie with his 17th homer in the seventh.

Allen's Six Hits Lead Philadelphia To Twin Sweep

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Richie Allen has been battling twin pressures all season long — and so far it's been no contest.

Philadelphia's kid third baseman was spotlighted in the spring as a sure-shot bet to be the National League's Rookie of the Year and since then has been called upon to play a key role in the Phillies' drive for their first pennant since 1950.

Neither challenge has stymied Allen, who boosted his batting average to .314 with six hits Friday night as the front-running Phils swept a doubleheader from their favorite pasties, New York's last-place Mets, 6-1 and 6-4 and went four games ahead of runner-up San Francisco.

"There's been a lot written, but there's not much I can do about it, and I don't think it's had any effect," the soft-spoken 22-year-old from Wampum, Pa., said at Shea Stadium.

"As for the pennant, I don't think I've let that affect my play, either. It's simply playing nine hard innings every game."

Gene Mauch, the Phils' no-nonsense manager, is slightly more verbose on the subject. "First of all, let me say that if he hadn't done what he's done, there'd be no pennant to think about."

"As for Richie personally, nothing bothers him. He knows he's a good ballplayer and that's that. He has a thoroughly professional approach — he doesn't let a bad day get him down or a good day go to his head."

Raceway Explosion

MONTREAL (AP) — A bomb explosion at Richelieu Raceway in suburban Pointe-Aux-Trembles early Friday ripped away part of a grandstand wall and shattered windows, but no injuries were reported.

Hurley, Legion Win

Don Tompkins hurled a no-hitter and Hurley beat the Rotary Club, 9-3, in a Babe Ruth league game last evening.

In the other attraction, young Andy Murphy and Tom Bruck combined for a one-hitter as the Legion beat hapless Kiwanis, 11-0.

Tompkins was wild, walking nine batters and the bases on balls led to the three runs scored off his slants. He fanned 13.

Charlie Moore swatted a home run and Al Vogt had three singles for the winners. Tompkins chipped in with a double.

Murphy, a good hitting pitcher, slugged a homer and two singles to lead the Legion attack. The winners scored seven times in the first inning off Jay Felvey and were never in danger.

'Killer' Hits 41st Home Run; Yankees Lose

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The brass ring appears to have passed them by but Dean Chance and Harmon Killebrew aren't letting their disappointment interfere with business.

Pennant fever is extinct in Los Angeles and Minnesota but Chance hasn't stopped reeling off victories for the fourth-place Angels and Killebrew is still hitting home runs at a near-record pace for the sixth-place Twins.

Chance hurled his eighth straight victory Friday night, blanking Washington 7-0 on two hits in the second game of a doubleheader after the Senators took the opener 7-3. Killebrew slammed his 41st homer and grabbed the major league lead in runs batted in while leading the Twins past Cleveland 7-6.

Chance, whose victory string is the longest of any American League pitcher this season, recorded his seventh shutout, tying New York's Whitey Ford for the major league leadership in that department.

Seven Games Up

Killebrew's homer lifted him seven games ahead of Babe Ruth's pace in 1927, when the Yankee immortal hit 60 in a 154-game schedule. But the Minnesota slugger trails Roger Maris' torrid 1961 clip that produced 61 homers over an expanded 162-game slate. Friday night's game was Killebrew's 113th.

Harmon also stroked a run-producing single, thereby wresting the RBI lead from Dick Stuart of Boston. Killebrew has driven in 92 runs. Stuart 91.

The Baltimore Orioles, meanwhile, held their three-game bulge over Chicago and dropped New York 4½ games back by edging the third-place Yankees 5-4. The White Sox buried Boston 11-1 and Kansas City outscored Detroit 5-4.

Chance, 13-5, held the Senators hitless until the fifth, when Don Zimmerman's smash off first baseman Vic Power went for a hit. The Washington crowd booed the decision but Don Blasingame rescued the official scorer with a clean single in the sixth.

Killebrew hit his homer in the second inning and singled home one of three Minnesota runs in the fifth. Rich Rollins' sacrifice fly delivered the deciding run in the sixth after Cleveland tied the score in the top of the inning on Joe Azcue's three-run homer.

Brooks Robinson's three-run homer and the clutch relief pitching of Harvey Haddix and Dick Hall carried Baltimore to its 10th victory in 16 season meetings with the Yankees. Robinson connected off reliever Steve Hamilton in the sixth, giving the Orioles a 4-2 lead, and Earl Robinson singled home what turned out to be the deciding run in the seventh.

Haddix Saves Big Game With Solid Relief Job

By JOE REICHLER

BALTIMORE (AP)—On May 26, 1959, Harvey Haddix turned in what many believe to be the finest pitching performance ever. That night Haddix hurled 12 perfect innings for Pittsburgh against Milwaukee, but lost 1-0.

Friday night, five years, two months and three weeks later, Haddix, pitching for the Baltimore Orioles, worked only parts of two innings against the New York Yankees. In neither inning did he pitch perfect ball but Manager Hank Bauer and the rest of the Orioles will tell you it was the best relief job turned in by a Baltimore pitcher this year.

All the drama was packed into one inning, the seventh, when Haddix strode out of the bullpen and stopped the Yankees cold to pave the way for a 5-4 Baltimore triumph that boosted the Orioles' first place lead over third place New York to 4½ games.

The first batter he faced was Roger Maris and Harvey disposed of the dangerous left-handed hitter on three pitches, all strikes. Mickey Mantle was the next hitter. Haddix purposefully walked him filling the bases.

Now it was the switch hitting Tommy Tresh and Haddix struck him out, too, also on three pitches.

The danger was over. Barber's victory, his fourth over the Yankees, was saved.

Billy Daniels Wins Upset Split Decision Over Jones

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Daniels, a Brooklyn barber whose manager had given up on him as a fighter, today was riding high while Doug Jones, the top-ranking heavyweight contender, still was wondering what happened in the Madison Square Garden ring Friday night.

Daniels, a former contender who grabbed a sub's role against Jones on 24-hours notice, scored a resounding upset over the man who gave Cassius Clay his toughest fight.

Two of the three officials voted for Daniels, who won a split verdict in a close and often drab 10-round television fight.

Daniels, a gangling awkward 6-foot-5 beanie with long arms, had lost a close decision to Joe Jones 14 months ago in Teaneck, N.J. Bill was 3-1 underdog in the return and the crowd of about 4,000 cheered the decision.

The 27-year-old Daniels appeared on the way out of boxing when he was stopped in the third round by Germany's Karl Mildenberger last November. His manager, Julie Isaacson, gave up on him, and Billy decided to handle his own affairs.

Winner of only one fight in his last six, he was training for a bout with Cleveland Williams when he got the call to fill in for Tony Alonti, out with a bad elbow, against Jones.

Referee Zach Clayton, 5-3-2, and judge Johnny Dran, 5-4-1, voted for Daniels. Judge Al Berli had 6-4 for Jones. The AP scorecard had Jones in front 6-4.

Lyss Hanover Wins Levy Pace, Sets Record With 1:59.4 Time

Horse Is Owned By Julie Miron And Hy Greenspan

MONTICELLO — Lyss Hanover, owned by Julie Miron, president and Hy Greenspan, secretary-treasurer of Miron Lumber Co., took the lead at the three quarter pole and came blazing down the stretch in a blistering 30.1 finish to beat 3-4 favorite Vicar Hanover by a length and a half to win the George M. Levy Pace in 1:59.4, the second best time in the seven-year-old history of Monticello Raceway.

Vernon Dancer pulled the Chestnut Colt off the rail just before the three quarter mark. He passed the tiring Red Carpet and Sheer Genius, who had battled to a fantastic 28.4 quarter and a 59 second half.

The colt took the lead for keeps just past the pole and held off a late thrust by Bill Haughton's Vicar Hanover to win the major share of the $13,923 purse and set a mark for the race.

The great Overtrack held the previous record, a nifty 2:00.2, set in winning the Levy pace last season.

Takes Early Lead
Sheer Genius, coupled with Vicar Hanover in the Haughton stable and driven by Irving Roberts, took the early lead. As they swung past the paddock turn for the first time, Clarence Martin brought Red Carpet on the outside and the two pace setters were only noses apart in that blistering 59 second half.

As they straightened out in the backstretch, Dancer pulled Lyss Hanover off the rail and made his bid. Haughton followed the winner but was forced to go four wide. Lyss finally moved out in front for keeps around the final turn and kept the margin in the run for home.

Vicar Hanover managed to nip late closing Bengazi Hanover by a nose for place honors. Bengazi Hanover was another length and a half in front of Red Carpet, which faded to fourth.

National Record
The 1:59.4 time is a record this season for three-year-olds competing on a half mile track. Vicar Hanover held the previous mark of 2:00, set last month at Saratoga Raceway. Needless to say, this is also a Monticello mark for three-year-old pacers or trotters.

Sent off at 9-2 odds, Lyss Hanover, a third place finisher in the Messenger Stakes at Roosevelt, paid $11.60, $4.00 and $3.00. Vicar Hanover returned $2.80 and $2.30. Bengazi Hanover, with George Eholty in the sulky, paid $2.50 for show.

The Monticello track record was set in 1960 when Ted Zornow's Tar Boy clicked off a 1:59.3.

Following the first four horses across the finish line were Iron Rail (Jimmy Jordan), Lopez Hanover (Bill Popfinger) and Sheer Genius.

Colts Earn 28-28 Tie, Eagles Trim Steelers

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Colts scored in the last two minutes and earned a 28-28 tie with the Detroit Lions Friday night as the pro football exhibition season opened its second weekend.

The Kansas City Chiefs also scored in the last two minutes defeating the Buffalo Bills 24-21.

The Philadelphia Eagles defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers 24-13 and the Oakland Raiders whipped the Denver Broncos 20-7 in Friday's other games.

Top Trotters At MR Tonight

MONTICELLO — Nine of the top three-year-old trotters in the country will go postward tonight in the Elbridge T. Gerry Trot for three-year-old geldings and colts at Monticello Raceway.

A purse of $13,373 will be riding on the race.

Early favorites are Eddie Wheeler's Big John, which has drawn the coveted pole position and Bold Viking, one of the stars of the Stanley Dancer stable. Jimmy Jordan will handle the reins behind this horse, which starts from post four.

By virtue of a second place finish behind Hambletonian favorite Ayres last week at The Meadows, Big John will have plenty of support. The brown horse has already banked more than $24,000 this season.

A Sharp Workout
Bold Viking has been idle for nearly three weeks but he went a good workout recently at Yonkers and is reported sharp for this race. The horse has won almost $50,000 this season.

Other top threats figure to be the Howard Beissinger entry of Square Deal and Speedabout and the Clarence Martin entry of Style Setter and Valiant Ruler. Local favorite Bedevil is in the field and will start from post nine, the pole position in the second tier. Other starters will be Smart Rodney and Rain Water.

This race climaxes Grand Circuit at Monticello and it figures to be a fitting ending.

Warm Front Bringing Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Summer snow fell on the Northeast's higher mountain slopes today and low temperature records were set for the date in many places from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks, and Mt. Washington, N. H., were dusted by snow, although there was no accumulation. The mercury atop Whiteface was 34 degrees.

Rochester, N. Y., with 47; Pittsburgh, with 43, Chicago with 51, Boston with 53, and New York City with 54, had new low temperature records for the date.

The mercury sank into the 30s in many sections of the Appalachians during the early morning hours.

A front of warm air from the Gulf pressed northward behind the cold air mass, touching off rains in the lower Mississippi Valley and Plains as it moved on the Midwest.

McAlester, Okla., had a rainfall of 1 1/4 inches and Fayetteville, Ark., about 1 1/2 inches. Amarillo, Tex., got about two-thirds of an inch of rain. Early readings of many areas of the country were crisp and cool.

Rock Fall Traps Two, 65 Other Miners Get Out

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (AP)—A rock fall shattered a section of a gold mine Sunday night, trapping two men near the 4,000-foot level. Sixty-five other miners escaped.

Rescue operations were halted temporarily when other rock falls rumbled through the Wright-Hargreaves Mine.

The missing men are Donald Yeworski, 45, a widower with two sons and a married daughter, and Edouard Duchesne, 55, married with no children. Both are from Kirkland Lake.

Wright-Hargreaves, one of the deepest gold mines in North America, extends more than 8,000 feet underground.

Move to Replace Togliatti Could Split Italy Reds

Togliatti is 71, and the question of a successor can't be dodged. The Rome newspaper Paese Sera said the stroke had apparently left him partially paralyzed.

Killed Near Middletown

A 65-year-old Orange County woman was fatally injured and her 86-year-old husband was critically hurt Friday at 5:45 p.m. as the result of a two-car collision on Route 17 at the intersection of Denning Road near Middletown.

State Police reported Mrs. Helen Brown Dennison, of Rock Tavern, died of multiple injuries. She was a passenger in a car operated by her husband, Alfred, when the vehicle collided with a car driven by Mark Brown, 20, of 3329 Rochambeau Avenue, Bronx.

Dennison, troopers said, was admitted to Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown. He suffered a punctured lung, cerebral concussion and other injuries. His condition was listed as serious.

According to state police at Middletown, Brown was driving north on Route 17 and Dennison was entering the highway from Denning Road, when the crash occurred. Brown apparently escaped injury. Investigation of the accident will continue, troopers said.

Gets New Order

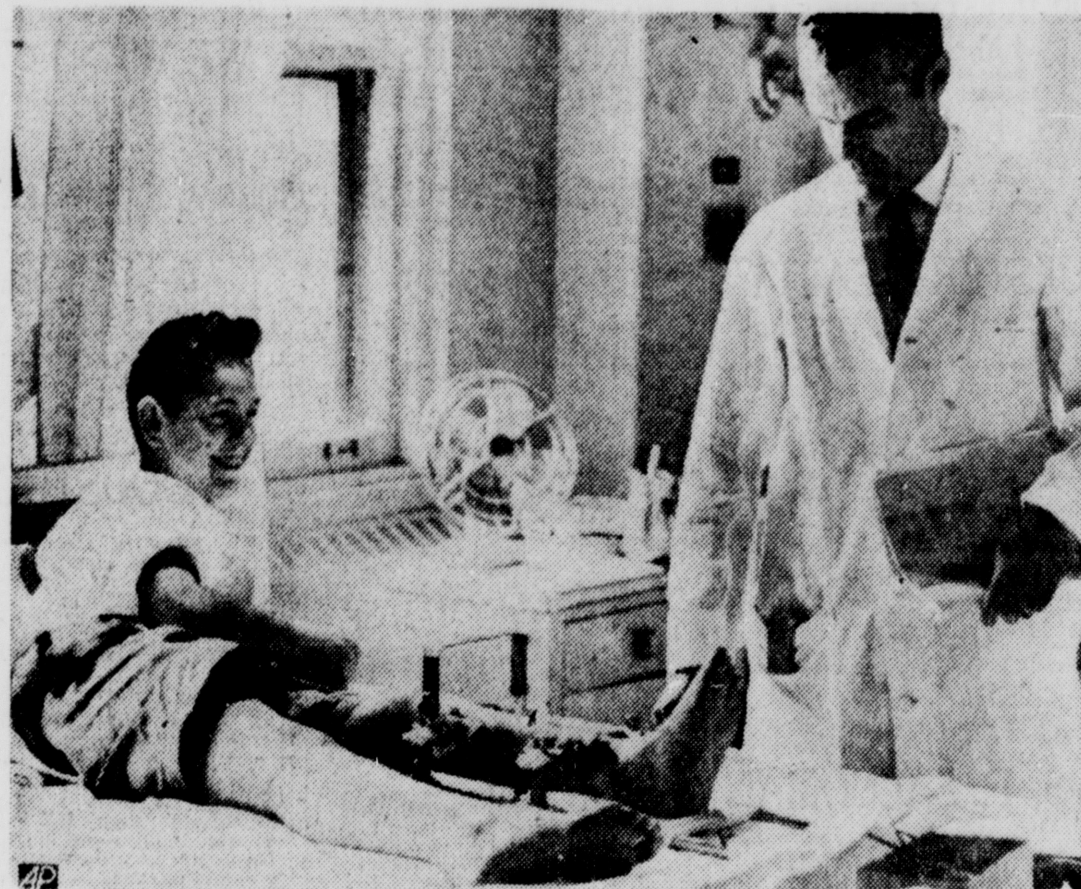

cause why he should not be examined by a court-appointed doctor.

Asst. Dist. Atty. David A. Goldstein obtained the order, returnable Wednesday, from State Supreme Court Justice George Postel.

The first such order, issued last month, resulted in testimony from a heart specialist that a trip to New York from the hospital in Monticello, where Mintz is a patient, might be too much for him.

State Supreme Court Justice Charles Marks refused to require Mintz to appear, stating he would not "take the responsibility for the life or death of this witness."

The grand jury is looking into an alleged $100,000 bribery scheme to get a license for the Finger Lakes track near Canandaigua.

Dixie Demos Map Line of Attack For Atlantic City

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Governors of five Southern states huddled behind closed doors here Friday in a surprise session to discuss civil rights and apparently map strategy for the Democratic National Convention.

"We believe that our meeting has been beneficial, and we may have additional meetings in the future," said Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen, host for the session and spokesman for himself, Mississippi Gov. Paul B. Johnson, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

The Washington Post reported in a dispatch from New Orleans that the governors had agreed to boycott the convention unless the regular Mississippi Democratic delegates are seated. A predominantly Negro group, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, has challenged the right of the regulars to be seated.

Florida's Gov. Farris Bryant, who left the session an hour earlier than the other chief executives, said he had to rush back to Tallahassee, his capital, because of state problems.

In Tallahassee Bryant said: "We met for an exchange of views on mutual problems. A wide range of subjects was discussed, but no plans for concerted action were arrived at."

Those Southern governors attending the National Democratic Convention expect to review their conversations there.

The convention opens Aug. 24 at Atlantic City, N.J. Gov. Johnson says he won't attend the national convention. The other governors are expected to go, although McKeithen has said he hasn't made up his mind about attending.

"They wanted to keep it confidential, and I will respect their wishes," McKeithen told newsmen after the session, called so quickly that Faubus didn't know the site of the meeting when he left Little Rock to fly to New Orleans.

McKeithen said: "Perhaps most of our time was spent discussing civil rights legislation. ...With this new civil-rights legislation we do have many problems. With schools opening we do face problems we haven't had before."

The Alabama governor, who pulled out of the presidential race, said he would attend the national convention and appear before the Platform Committee. Asked if he would back the Democratic or Republican candidate for president, Wallace replied: "No, we'll just let the people make up their minds for themselves."

All five governors are Democratic executives in states where there is presently strong sentiment for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential nominee.

Filibuster on Seats

Doubt Adjournment Before Dem Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders all but gave up hope today of winding up the congressional session next week as Democratic liberals whipped up a filibuster against a compromise proposal to delay court-ordered legislative reapportionment in the states.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said in advance of today's debate that if talk continues through next week, Congress will have to return after the Democratic convention, opening Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

Dirksen Ready to Stay

This may be necessary to get final action on the $3.3-billion foreign aid money bill, to which the reapportionment proposal has been offered as a rider.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who got Mansfield to join him in offering the compromise amendment, said in a separate interview that if it takes until Labor Day to get action, he is ready to stay on the job.

"I'm going to get a vote on this, no matter how long it takes," Dirksen said.

He added he has been informed that opponents of the proposal plan to keep talking until the convention break.

The Dirksen-Mansfield amendment is designed to delay the effects of the recent Supreme Court ruling that both houses of state legislatures — many dominated by rural minorities — must be apportioned by population.

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., an opponent of the amendment, asked how long talk would go on, replied: "Until we win this battle."

Could Invoke Cloture

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said, however, that unless the opponents can muster about a dozen members to speak at length, he thinks there may be a move next week to end debate by invoking cloture. This would require approval of two-thirds of those voting.

Douglas told the Senate Friday the objective of the Dirksen-Mansfield proposal is to buy time so that a proposed constitutional amendment to nullify the Supreme Court's one-man one-vote decision could be pushed through "malapportioned legislatures."

The attempt to attach the rider to the foreign-aid bill was designed to "place it beyond the power of a presidential veto," he said.

Reports Shockey Seemed to Have Eye on Another

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An Oregon man says he talked with Herbert Shockey in the Superstition Mountain area the day before the bodies of a slain Merrill, N. Y. couple were found nearby.

Ray Landers, 68, of Portland, testified at Shockey's murder trial Friday that, when he stopped his pickup-camper truck near Apache Junction last Feb. 23, Shockey drove up in an automobile and talked with him.

Later, he said, Shockey trailed his truck for a while but seemed to have his eye on another pickup-camper parked off the road.

Landers said he did not know whether it was the vehicle of Mr. and Mrs. John Bertella, whose bodies were found the next day.

Shockey, 30, an ex-convict, is charged with the knife-and-gun slaying of the Bertellas. He faces a possible death sentence if convicted.

Maricopa County Sheriff L.C. (Cal) Boies has said Shockey admitted the killings.

Shockey's trial is to resume Monday.

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. authorities are amazed that the East German regime did not imprison a young American college student who says he slugged three Communist border guards in a dispute over money.

The student, James Connor, 19, of Glenside, Pa., told State Department officials Friday that the Reds had detained him three hours. He said he had struck a guard who had said the East German marks he had purchased in West Berlin would be confiscated.

Connor, a junior at Holy Cross College, is hitchhiking through Europe.

Warm Front Bringing Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Summer snow fell on the Northeast's higher mountain slopes today and low temperature records were set for the date in many places from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks, and Mt. Washington, N. H., were dusted by snow, although there was no accumulation. The mercury atop Whiteface was 34 degrees.

Rochester, N. Y., with 47; Pittsburgh, with 43, Chicago with 51, Boston with 53, and New York City with 54, had new low temperature records for the date.

The mercury sank into the 30s in many sections of the Appalachians during the early morning hours.

A front of warm air from the Gulf pressed northward behind the cold air mass, touching off rains in the lower Mississippi Valley and Plains as it moved on the Midwest.

McAlester, Okla., had a rainfall of 1 1/4 inches and Fayetteville, Ark., about 1 1/4 inches. Amarillo, Tex., got about two-thirds of an inch of rain. Early readings of many areas of the country were crisp and cool.

The missing men are Donald Yeworski, 45, a widower with two sons and a married daughter, and Edouard Duchesne, 55, married with no children. Both are from Kirkland Lake. Wright-Hargreaves, one of the deepest gold mines in North America, extends more than 8,000 feet underground.

Togliatti is 71, and the question of a successor can't be dodged. The Rome newspaper Paese Sera said the stroke had apparently left him partially paralyzed.
